Tax Law Due Wide Review By Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress opened a sweeping review of the tax code today, hearing a call for a 20 per cent tax on the investment income of private foundations.

Rep. Wright Patman, the Texas Democrat who has been a leading critic of tax-exempt foundations for more than eight years, told the House Ways and Means Committee in prepared testimony "I do not seek to destroy foundations, but to reform them."

Patman, however, said he does not propose taxing contributions to foundations, but rather on their investment revenue.

The committee, headed by Arkansas Democrat Wilbur D. Mills, began what is expected to be a two-year job of revamping tax laws which were last reviewed in 1954.

Patman said the use of some of the nation's estimated 3,200 foundations have made of their tax-free status "reveals the continuing devotion of home of our millionaires to greed, rather than conversion to graciousness."

However, Charles L. McClaskey, president of the National Association of Foundations, Inc., said the groups are capable of policing themselves under his association's code of ethics, and no additional legislation is necessary.

"Private foundation abuse is, as a matter of fact, not widespread as some would have you believe, because the experience of the Internal Revenue Service in auditing private foundation's returns found less than two per cent violations," he said in prepared testimony.

Besides a tax on such foundation income as interest, dividends, capital gains and profit from business activities, Patman said he is offering legislation to limit any privately controlled foundation from owning more than 3 per cent of the stock of a business. He said it would also require such organizations to distribute annually for philanthropic purposes their entire net income.

Patman said 596 foundations studied by the small business subcommittee he heads increased the value of their assets from $10.2 billion to $15.1 billion between 1960 and 1966.

The $3.5-billion Ford Foundation, he said, paid $360,351 to

Nixon Set To Pare OEO, Realign War On Poverty

Job Corps, Head Start Due Switch

Community Action Program, VISTA To Be Left In OEO

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is preparing to pare away roughly half of the Office of Economic Opportunity in a major realignment of the war on poverty.

The Job Corps, Head Start and slum health centers are to be shifted to other federal agencies, informed sources said today.

But one of the most controversial of the antipoverty efforts, the community action programs, will be left in OEO, they said. So will VISTA, the domestic peace corps.

The White House is expected to make the formal announcement today or Wednesday.

Head Start, the widely praised preschool program for disadvantaged children, is OEO's largest single program with a $318 million budget. It is slated to go to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Job Corps, the second largest at $280 million, is to be transferred to the Labor Department.

HEW will also get the Comprehensive Health Services program of slum medical clinics.

The war on poverty, launched by President Johnson four years ago, has come under increasing criticism in the past year amid accusations of scandal and spotty performance.

Congress began the breakup last fall by voting to move Upward Bound, a college program for school dropouts, to HEW's Office of Education this summer. At the same time, Congress set a March 1 deadline for a White House recommendation on what to do with Job Corps and Head Start.

Slicing away Head Start, Job Corps, Upward Bound and the slum health centers will strip away nearly $700 million of the OEO budget—about half of the present total.

The antipoverty agency has a $1.9 billion budget, but $300 million of that already is funneled to the Labor Department, which runs the Neighborhood Youth Corps.

OEO will be left with about

B52s Shift Their Priority To Cong

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. B52 bombers have shifted their priority in the past week from the Ho Chi Minh Trail through Laos to Viet Cong bases threatening Saigon, informed sources reported today.

The Stratofortresses have pulverized suspected enemy bases on two sides of Saigon with 7,200 tons of explosives in the last seven days in spoiling raids to try to prevent four North Vietnamese divisions from massing for an assault against Saigon.

Twenty-four B52s took to the air after the allies' 24-hour Tet cease-fire ended Monday evening, striking 35 miles north to 63 miles northwest of Saigon. Some of the raids were nine miles from the Cambodian border.

The big bombers average about 70 sorties during each 24-hour reporting period. Previously about half this number were targeted for strikes in Laos. But in the past week, it is estimated the sorties over Laos dropped off to 18 a day, with the biggest effort shifted to the provinces around Saigon.

B52 raids in the Saigon area were tripled for the lunar new year period—roughly 240 sorties, or one flight by one plane, were flown in the past week—in anticipation that the Communist command might try to launch major thrusts from its two main bases in War Zones D and C. Sources said the B52s dropped nearly 26,000 bombs each weighing 500 and 750 iounds on these areas.

Death Of Aquanaut Halts Navy's Sealab 3 Program

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — A $10-million Navy program to train men for undersea living has been suspended while doctors try to learn why an aquanaut had a fatal heart seizure 610 feet down on Monday.

Sealab 3, the leaking underwater dwelling unit which Berry L. Cannon, 33, was attempting to repair when stricken, was ordered hauled up from the ocean floor near San Clemente island.

A delay of weeks seemed likely for the trouble-plagued project, which called for five nineman teams to spend 12 days each living and working at the bottom of the sea.

The other eight members of Cannon's team began a six-day period of decompression, a gradual process in which their body tissues become accustomed again to surface pressures. Like Cannon, they had been conditioned to pressures 19 times normal to withstand the weight of the ocean at the Sealab's depth.

The body of Cannon, a civilian with three children, was flown to 11th Naval District headquarters at San Diego, Calif., for an autopsy. Deputy County Coroner W. T. Souza said preliminary tests were inconclusive.

Escape 'Rope' Too Short

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — A prisoner tied two pairs of overalls together Monday to use as an escape "rope" from Seattle's sixth-floor city jail—and found he barely had a leg to hang on.

He should have used stretch pants.

Willard Aguilar 32, discovered to his consternation when he slid to the end of the overalls he still was two floors short of the plaza he was trying to reach.

For 10 minutes Aguilar dangled on the face of the building hollering for help. Firemen hoisted a ladder and rescued him.

He was in jail for 180 days for possession of drugs and a concealed weapon.

Truck Breaks Cable On Span's Approach

An overhead cable forming part of the warning system in advance of the height barrier at the East Liverpool end of the Chester Bridge was brought down today when bumped by a truck, police reported.

The cable was hit by a 1963 model truck owned by the B. & L. Motor Freight Co. of Newark and operated by Hershell O. Cope, 33, of Rittman in Wayne County.

The mishap snapped a pole supporting the cable and also may have damaged the bridge railing, officers said.

Cope said he was attempting to turn his rig around after noting the height barrier. But the truck drifted forward slightly and the body bumped the cable.

DeGaulle Step Against WEU Stirs Europe

Boycotts Council Less Than Week Before Nixon Visit

LONDON (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle's boycott of the Western European Union threw a new storm over the Continent today, less than a week before President Nixon's visit.

In the latest maneuver of De Gaulle's little cold war with Britain, France withdrew Monday from the council of the WEU, the seven-nation organization that provides the only forum in which Britain and the six nations of the Common Market can discuss cooperation. The council meets twice a month.

Some commentators regarded the confrontation between France and Britain as a deliberate buildup for the U.S. President's visit.

For France, it underlines De Gaulle's determination to lead Western Europe, to show Nixon that Western Europe cannot move without Paris, and to warn Nixon not to push for Britain's entry into the Common Market.

For Britain, it demonstrates that Britain enjoys the support of France's five Common Market allies, and it shows the conviction of Prime Minister Harold Wilson's government that Britain belongs in Europe despite De Gaulle's veto.

The crisis began building up last week when all the WEU

Mayor Seeks Pay Increase For Director

Council referred to its finance committee Monday night a letter from Mayor George E. Willshaw requesting a $75-a-month salary increase for Safety-Service Director Robert E. Vodrey.

The mayor's request, which amounts to $900 a year, would boost the director from his present $7,800 annually to $8,700

"With such an increase, the office still will be one of the lowest paid in the state for such a position," the mayor's letter said.

"In all the years I have been associated with city affairs, I never have seen this office operated as efficiently," the mayor added.

As head of the safety and service departments, Vodrey is directly responsible for overseeing the operations of the police, fire, street and incinerator departments.

The mayor also asked a $10-a-month raise for Dog Warden Robert Croyle, which would put his salary at $185 for the part-time job.

Willshaw added that he believes the warden should wear a uniform while on duty and that the city should defray the expense.

The request for the warden's boost also was referred to the finance committee.

Area Due For More Enjoyable Weather

The more than acceptable weather for this time of year is due to continue tonight and Wednesday in the tri - state area.

The forecast calls for partly cloudy with little change in temperature. Tonight's low will be in the 20s and tomorrow's high in the 30s.

Given First Reading

Council Advances Hike In Gas Rate

Council gave the first of three required readings Monday night, 4-2, to an ordinance that would grant the Ohio Valley Gas Co. a rate increase averaging out to 11.88 per cent over four years — an alternative to allowing the Ohio Public Utilities Commission to act on the company's application for an immediate 15.8 per cent hike in a two-year contract.

Councilmen Robert W. Sample, Donal I. Burcham, John Wilson and James Lowe supported the ordinance. "No" votes were cast by Councilmen Frank Duffy and Edward Massey. The seventh member, Floyd Murray, was absent.

LAST NIGHT'S action means that the rate ordinance will advance to second reading at the March 3 meeting and then would come up for final passage on March 17 — if the split vote remains unchanged.

Council's two alternatives in the gas rate question were explained at a caucus session last Thursday night by Solicitor J. Michael Kapp, reporting on a meeting which he and President Norman Bucher attended with the PUCO's entineering division Feb. 7 at Columbus.

At that time, Kapp recommended approval of the local ordinance, as opposted to allowing the PUCO to set the rates. He said two PUCO officials said the state agency undoubtedly would grant raises higher than those provided in the local ordinance.

The local ordinance would grant the company a 7.9 per cent hike the first year, 8.9 per cent in the second year, 15 per cent in the third year and 16.7 per cent in the fourth year. It is virtually identical to an ordinance which Council rejected last March in earlier negotations with the utility.

Taking the first tentative steps toward surfacing of Maine Blvd., the muddy, rut-scarred thoroughfare that serves the new school complex, Council asked a conference Monday night with Mayor George E. Councilman John Wilson of the Second Ward asked President Norman Bucher to invite the three administration representatives to the next meeting March 3 to discuss the project.

Wilson said it appears that if the street is to be surfaced any time soon the procedure to be followed would be the same as for any other such improvement — circulation of a petition in which owners of abutting property would agree to pay most of the cost through special assessments.

He said he believes sufficient signatures will be obtained without difficulty, since the board of education and the Trinity United Presbyterian Church are two of the major property holders along the street and apparently both school authorities and the church would favor the improvement.

Budget Cuts Indicated As Congress Bid

$6 Billion Slash Termed Sentiment Among Lawmakers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of the joint House-Senate Economic Committee indicate there is strong sentiment in Congress for deep cuts—comparable to last year's $6 billion slash—in the $195.3-billion budget inherited by President Nixon from the Johnson administration.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., presiding temporarily over committee hearings, said he was "very disappointed" at Monday's testimony from members of the Council of Economic Advisers who did not foresee large savings from the current review of Johnson's last budget.

"But that doesn't mean Congress cannot make the cuts itself," Proxmire said. When questioned on whether he thought it might be possible to force a $6-billion reduction in the fiscal 1970 budget request, as was done in fiscal 1969, Proxmire replied:

"Oh, certainly. There is more sentiment in Congress for a cut this year."

Chairman Paul W. McCracken of the Council of Economic Advisers, testified that the budget must be kept in balance for anti-inflationary reasons.

LISBON — Two 13-year-old boys, the 15-year-old brother of one and a girl, 16 appeared in Juvenile Court Monday and admitted charges filed in connection wih the Jan. 27 burglary of the Wellsville Dairy Queen at Routes 7 and 45.

The girl, a Salineville resident and the sister of two of the boys, admired receiving and concealing stolen items while the boys, all Wellsville residents, admitted breaking into the stand.

Charles L. Griffith, 18, of West St., Salineville, is to be arraigned today in Columbiana County Southwest Court here on a charge of receiving and concealing in the same case.

Judge Louis Tobin of Juvenile Court fined each juvenile $25, ordered them to pay all damages, not to associate with Griffith, not go anywhere unless accompanied by a parent, observe a 5 p.m. curfew until June 1 and report weekly to the probation officer at East Liverpool.

Fake Salesmen Get $150 In Home Theft

LISBON — Two men posing as real estate salesmen called on Mrs. Ethel Brownfield of West Point Monday afternoon and stole $150 from her purse. She is 71 and lives alone.

She told Sheriff's Deputies Robert Beresford and Richard Koffel she did not discover the theft until 4:50 — or about an hour after the men left "in a dark car."

Mrs. Brownfield said she believes one of the men took the money from her purse in a bedroom while she was showing another bedroom to his companion. She said the men told her they were interested in buying the house.

Beresford said the same scheme was used to steal money from an elderly woman some time ago at Lake Tomahawk.

Gas Rate

ordance primarily because he he believes rates should be set by the PUCO, not Council.

"I don't think Council has a right to enter into a contract with a utility," Massey said. He added that none of the members is a rate expert, qualified to understand all the claims and counter-claims that arise in such negotiations.

"I feel the PUCO should set the rate and be certain that it protects the rights of the local consumers," Massey said. "That is the responsibility of that agency, to serve the public."

"No piece of legislation in history has been before Council as much as this one," Duffy said, referring to the rate ordinance. "I don't know why we can take it up again tonight. It's the same thing we defeated a few months ago."

"I think it's rotten to throw fear into the people over what the PUCO might do in Columbus," Duffy continued. "Some of our officials and councilmen want to take care of the gas company more than they want to take care of the people. The people are all burned up over this gas question."

THEN SAMPLE asked Kapp to repeat part of his report from last Thursday night, particularly the PUCO officials' recommendations that East Liverpool set its own rate raise.

"The PUCO engineering department reviewed the facts and suggested strongly that Council pass the ordinance," Kapp said. "They said if we did not, the PUCO would grant a raise considerably higher. They said it was to the advantage of the citizens of East Liverpool to pass this ordinance."

When the vote on the ordinance showed the 4-2 split, Bucher announced it had fallen short of immediate passage and would be up for second reading at the next meeting.

IN OTHER business, Council approved a street committee recommendation to remove three parking meters from Broadway near the Central Fire Station to provide a taxi stand for the Yellow Cab Co. The recommendation was presented by Massey.

Lowe announced councilmen will confer Wednesday night at 7 to discuss wage increases for city department superintendents. Raises previously were granted rank-and-file workers.

Council accepted a report of the claims committee to settle two bills against the city and reject a third. Presented by Wilson, chairman, the report calls for payment of $89 to Roger Bolen of Carrollton, Md., whose parked car was hit by a city truck, and $15 to Peter Shaw of 361 Ray St., who said his water line froze because part of the earth covering it was removed by a city scraper.

Massey, in discussing his decision not to seek a new term, said his primary consideration was that he would not be able to devote as much time to the job as would be required.

"I felt I could not put in the necessary time," Massey said. "It is a big job."

Prior to the regular meeting, Council held public hearings on two requests for changes in zoning classification. The requests were filed by Esther Herring of 1055 Mapletree St. and Mrs. Vincent Gerace of 851 Ohio Ave. No one appeared for either hearing. The two property owners, meanwhile, had advised that they had withdrawn the requests and will file them with the Zoning Board of Appeals.

The meeting opened with invocation by Burcham.

Man Is Removed From Roof After Confessing Fire

A 49-year-old transient, who claimed "that someone was after him," was charged with suspicion of arson after being removed from the roof of a house near the Ceramic Hotel about 8:45 a. m. today.

George Bradford Fox, 49, of Mt. Morris, Pa. said he set fire to a mattress, broke out a window, went on to the roof of the hotel, jumped to an adjoining house and then was found by police and firemen on the roof of still another house. He was removed by ladder.

Fox said he started the fire to attract attention since "some one was after him."

He was being questioned by police and firemen, who said he had arrived here Monday from Alliance.

Tax Hike Set For Beaver's College Unit

BEAVER — A new 1969-70 budget for the Beaver County Community College which would boost the tax rate for supporting sponsors .55 mill was adopted by the trustees at a meeting Monday.

The trustees approved a $2,160,000 budget, up $386,000 from last year, and based on an enrollment of 1,200 students, 100 licensed practical nurse students and an increase in the continuing education program.

The tuition cost to be paid for students by sponsoring school districts and municipalities would be boosted from $300 to $330. There would be no cost increase to students or in the state share.

If approved by the sponsoring districts — which include Midland, Western Beaver and South Side school districts — the tax rate would rise from the present 2.26 mills to 2.81 mills.

Dr. John Hirt, president, said plans call for four new programs in the curriculum — police science, fire science, small engine and appliance repair and inventory control.

The executive committee agreed to request the state department of education to proceed with advertising of bids for site preparation and construction of the planned new campus in Center Township.

Reports were given on new salary proposals discussed by the special faculty committee and trustee representatives, and it is hoped action can be taken next month.

None Injured In 3 Mishaps At Wellsville

No one was injured in three traffic mishaps investigated by Wellsville police Monday.

Minor damage resulted when an auto operated by a Wellsville area woman struck the car of a Toronto resident at 3:40 p.m. at 1st and Lisbon Sts.

Louise Shambler of Wellsville RD 1 told police her 1962 vehicle was traveling north on 1st St. when she failed to see a 1966 auto operated by Wilma Mae Taylor of Toronto pulling off of Lisbon St. and the two collided.

Police also investigated an accident on Clark Ave., at 1:50 p.m.

The truck driver, George Tuchoski of Chardon, told Toronto police who later stopped him, that he was unaware that he had struck the auto's door. He returned to Wellsville to competle the report, police said. No citations were issued.

Minor damage resulted to a wrecker parked at Art's Auto Parts at Clark Ave., and 22nd St. when it was struck by an auto late Monday.

Area Driver Charged As Truck Rams Auto

An area motorist was charged with failure to stop in the assured clear distance following an accident Monday on the Freeway exit ramp.

The Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon said Margaret E. Dick, 55, of Lisbon RD 3 had halted her 1967 sedan at the stop sign and George Tivis Jr., 58, of RD 1 failed to stop his 1969 pickup truck and it struck the Dick auto in the rear.

There was moderate damage to both vehicles. Tivis was cited by the patrol. The accident was timed at 5:30 p. m.

Trial Planned On 3 Charges

Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff today granted a continuance until Feb. 25 in a trial for a 33-year-old Klondyke man facing three charges as a result of a traffic mishap Feb. 8.

Donald S. Ingram of 1825 Harvey Ave. is charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol, failure to stop in the assured clear distance and operating an auto with fictitious registration.

Ingram pleaded not guilty on all three charges this morning through his counsel, Bernard Fineman. He was cited by Patrolmen Dwight Garvey and Joseph Bates after a collision on Broadway at E. 5th St. that damaged Ingram's car and a station wagon operated by Ralph Maze, 18, of Ashland Pl.

Fineman also filed a motion for a court order "compelling the city of East Liverpool to make available to the defendant or his attorney the results of a breath-alcohol test made on the defendant." Asst. Solicitor Robert L. Simpson told the court the results of the test would be made available to the defense, as provided in the Ohio Revised Code, so there was no argument on the motion.

Meanwhile, Frank Sims Jr., 19, of 2200 Clark Ave., Wellsville, was fined $10 and costs on a charge of driving 50 miles an hour in a 35-mile zone and $5 and costs on a charge of crashing a traffic light at St. Clair and Lincoln Aves. He was cited this morning at 2:46 on St. Clair Ave. by Patrolman H. Clyde Dillon.

Margaret Ann Thompson, 38, of Park Blvd. was ordered to pay court costs on a charge of driving with an expired operator's license. She was cited by the Ohio Highway Patrol Monday at 10 a. m. on St. Clair Ave. The patrol said she was halted for a vehicle inspection and it was found her operator's permit had expired Sept. 9. She told the court the license was renewed after she was cited.

Stalled Train Halts Traffic

An 122-car freight train blocked traffic for one and a half hours from the Westgate School area to below Mulberry St. in the East End Monday afternoon due to mechanical failure.

The mishap occurred about 1:40 p.m. and the train moved again at 3:10.

The knuckle joint and two air hoses were found defective and replaced.

Traffic was blocked the entire length of the River Rd.

Another eastbound train was waiting behind the first train and trains coming from the other direction also were stopped.

5 More Treated At City Hospital

A New Manchester woman burned when a furnace "blew out" at her home Monday was admitted to City Hospital, where four others were treated.

Mrs. James Allison of New Manchester is "fair" with burns on the face and left arm.

Treated were Mrs. Maxine Netti of 1130 Esther Ave., Wellsville, an employe of the Wellsville Press, a contusion of the right hand in a press; William Massey of 218 W. 4th S., an employe of the Hall China Co., a fractured right arm in a pulley at work; Thomas Deen of Boring Ln., a laceration of the scalp when his head struck a rear-view mirror, and Timothy Fitch, son of Mary Jo Fitch of Calcutta Acres, a laceration of the head in a fall.

The latex of the American poison sumac, Rhus vernix, is lacquer and has the fragrance of old China lacquer.

Costs Hiked For Midland Sewage Plan

An increase in the estimated cost of a planned sewage system improvement ordered by Pennsylvania officials for Midland was reported at a meeting of the Midland Municipal Authority Monday night.

Granville Kester, engineer for Michael Baker Jr., consulting engineers, said the cost would range from between $600,000 to $700,000, compared to the original estimate of $150,000.

The authority instructed him to apply for federal and state aid for the project following completion of plans for phase one of the improvement.

The Pennsylvania Department of Health in January last year ordered Midland and 43 other communities to upgrade their sewage treatment processes.

Authority officials said the financial burden of the project at the new estimated cost would be prohibitive for Midland's 1,875 sewage users without some sort of state or federal assistance.

In event such assistance is not provided and the borough is unable to comply with the directive, a hearing would be held by the state board of health to determine what could be done, it was reported.

Scholarship Tests Taken

National Merit Scholarship tests are being taken by about 90 East Liverpool Hgh School juniors today.

The qualifying test is a two hour, 10-minute exam given in the areas of English, mathematics, social studies, natural sciences and reading comprehension and word usage.

Dawson said each of the four tests is separately timed and is designed to measure what a student can do with what he has learned, not just the number of facts accumulated.

Industry Girl Listed As 'Poor' In Accident

The condition of an Industry girl injured in a car accident Saturday has worsened, according to officials at Rochester General Hospital.

Miss Kathleen Basta, 16, is now listed in "poor" condition with internal injuries suffered when the car in which she was a passenger collided with an auto operated by William Niffenegger of Beaver on Engle Hill Rd. Miss Susan Benek of Industry, driver of the car, is in "fair" condition at the hospital.

4 Juveniles Admit Theft

LISBON — Two 13-year-old boys, the 15-year-old brother of one and a girl, 16 appeared in Juvenile Court Monday and admitted charges filed in connection wih the Jan. 27 burglary of the Wellsville Dairy Queen at Routes 7 and 45.

The girl, a Salineville resident and the sister of two of the boys, admired receiving and concealing stolen items while the boys, all Wellsville residents, admitted breaking into the stand.

Charles L. Griffith, 18, of West St., Salineville, is to be arraigned today in Columbiana County Southwest Court here on a charge of receiving and concealing in the same case.

Judge Louis Tobin of Juvenile Court fined each juvenile $25, ordered them to pay all damages, not to associate with Griffith, not go anywhere unless accompanied by a parent, observe a 5 p.m. curfew until June 1 and report weekly to the probation officer at East Liverpool.

Fake Salesmen Get $150 In Home Theft

LISBON — Two men posing as real estate salesmen called on Mrs. Ethel Brownfield of West Point Monday afternoon and stole $150 from her purse. She is 71 and lives alone.

She told Sheriff's Deputies Robert Beresford and Richard Koffel she did not discover the theft until 4:50 — or about an hour after the men left "in a dark car."

Mrs. Brownfield said she believes one of the men took the money from her purse in a bedroom while she was showing another bedroom to his companion. She said the men told her they were interested in buying the house.

THEN SAMPLE asked Kapp to repeat part of his report from last Thursday night, particularly the PUCO officials' recommendations that East Liverpool set its own rate raise.

"The PUCO engineering department reviewed the facts and suggested strongly that Council pass the ordinance," Kapp said. "They said if we did not, the PUCO would grant a raise considerably higher. They said it was to the advantage of the citizens of East Liverpool to pass this ordinance."

When the vote on the ordinance showed the 4-2 split, Bucher announced it had fallen short of immediate passage and would be up for second reading at the next meeting.

IN OTHER business, Council approved a street committee recommendation to remove three parking meters from Broadway near the Central Fire Station to provide a taxi stand for the Yellow Cab Co. The recommendation was presented by Massey.

Council accepted a report of the claims committee to settle two bills against the city and reject a third. Presented by Wilson, chairman, the report calls for payment of $89 to Roger Bolen of Carrollton, Md., whose parked car was hit by a city truck, and $15 to Peter Shaw of 361 Ray St., who said his water line froze because part of the earth covering it was removed by a city scraper.

Massey, in discussing his decision not to seek a new term, said his primary consideration was that he would not be able to devote as much time to the job as would be required.

"I felt I could not put in the necessary time," Massey said. "It is a big job."

Prior to the regular meeting, Council held public hearings on two requests for changes in zoning classification. The requests were filed by Esther Herring of 1055 Mapletree St. and Mrs. Vincent Gerace of 851 Ohio Ave. No one appeared for either hearing. The two property owners, meanwhile, had advised that they had withdrawn the requests and will file them with the Zoning Board of Appeals.

None Injured In 3 Mishaps At Wellsville

No one was injured in three traffic mishaps investigated by Wellsville police Monday.

Minor damage resulted when an auto operated by a Wellsville area woman struck the car of a Toronto resident at 3:40 p.m. at 1st and Lisbon Sts.

An area motorist was charged with failure to stop in the assured clear distance following an accident Monday on the Freeway exit ramp.

The Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon said Margaret E. Dick, 55, of Lisbon RD 3 had halted her 1967 sedan at the stop sign and George Tivis Jr., 58, of RD 1 failed to stop his 1969 pickup truck and it struck the Dick auto in the rear.

There was moderate damage to both vehicles. Tivis was cited by the patrol. The accident was timed at 5:30 p. m.

Trial Planned On 3 Charges

Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff today granted a continuance until Feb. 25 in a trial for a 33-year-old Klondyke man facing three charges as a result of a traffic mishap Feb. 8.

Donald S. Ingram of 1825 Harvey Ave. is charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol, failure to stop in the assured clear distance and operating an auto with fictitious registration.

Ingram pleaded not guilty on all three charges this morning through his counsel, Bernard Fineman. He was cited by Patrolmen Dwight Garvey and Joseph Bates after a collision on Broadway at E. 5th St. that damaged Ingram's car and a station wagon operated by Ralph Maze, 18, of Ashland Pl.

Fineman also filed a motion for a court order "compelling the city of East Liverpool to make available to the defendant or his attorney the results of a breath-alcohol test made on the defendant." Asst. Solicitor Robert L. Simpson told the court the results of the test would be made available to the defense, as provided in the Ohio Revised Code, so there was no argument on the motion.

Meanwhile, Frank Sims Jr., 19, of 2200 Clark Ave., Wellsville, was fined $10 and costs on a charge of driving 50 miles an hour in a 35-mile zone and $5 and costs on a charge of crashing a traffic light at St. Clair and Lincoln Aves. He was cited this morning at 2:46 on St. Clair Ave. by Patrolman H. Clyde Dillon.

She was cited by the Ohio Highway Patrol Monday at 10 a. m. on St. Clair Ave. The patrol said she was halted for a vehicle inspection and it was found her operator's permit had expired Sept. 9. She told the court the license was renewed after she was cited.

Stalled Train Halts Traffic

An 122-car freight train blocked traffic for one and a half hours from the Westgate School area to below Mulberry St. in the East End Monday afternoon due to mechanical failure.

The mishap occurred about 1:40 p.m. and the train moved again at 3:10.

The knuckle joint and two air hoses were found defective and replaced.

Traffic was blocked the entire length of the River Rd.

Another eastbound train was waiting behind the first train and trains coming from the other direction also were stopped.

5 More Treated At City Hospital

A New Manchester woman burned when a furnace "blew out" at her home Monday was admitted to City Hospital, where four others were treated.

Mrs. James Allison of New Manchester is "fair" with burns on the face and left arm.

Treated were Mrs. Maxine Netti of 1130 Esther Ave., Wellsville, an employe of the Wellsville Press, a contusion of the right hand in a press; William Massey of 218 W. 4th S., an employe of the Hall China Co., a fractured right arm in a pulley at work; Thomas Deen of Boring Ln., a laceration of the scalp when his head struck a rear-view mirror, and Timothy Fitch, son of Mary Jo Fitch of Calcutta Acres, a laceration of the head in a fall.

Costs Hiked For Midland Sewage Plan

An increase in the estimated cost of a planned sewage system improvement ordered by Pennsylvania officials for Midland was reported at a meeting of the Midland Municipal Authority Monday night.

Granville Kester, engineer for Michael Baker Jr., consulting engineers, said the cost would range from between $600,000 to $700,000, compared to the original estimate of $150,000.

The authority instructed him to apply for federal and state aid for the project following completion of plans for phase one of the improvement.

The Pennsylvania Department of Health in January last year ordered Midland and 43 other communities to upgrade their sewage treatment processes.

Authority officials said the financial burden of the project at the new estimated cost would be prohibitive for Midland's 1,875 sewage users without some sort of state or federal assistance.

In event such assistance is not provided and the borough is unable to comply with the directive, a hearing would be held by the state board of health to determine what could be done, it was reported.

Scholarship Tests Taken

National Merit Scholarship tests are being taken by about 90 East Liverpool Hgh School juniors today.

The qualifying test is a two hour, 10-minute exam given in the areas of English, mathematics, social studies, natural sciences and reading comprehension and word usage.

Dawson said each of the four tests is separately timed and is designed to measure what a student can do with what he has learned, not just the number of facts accumulated.

2 Possibilities Sifted On Vocational School

LISBON—A Columbiana County vocational high school committee is studying two possibilities — a joint high school in this county or participation in the Mahoning County joint vocational high school.

James L. McBride, superintendent of Columbiana County schools, told the board of education Monday night the state's study of a joint vocational high school for the county suggests a $4 million building with 45 units of study and operating costs of about $640,000 a year.

HE SAID he will present details of the study to the committee when it goes to Nelsonville Feb. 26 to inspect the Tri-County Vocational School, which is about the same size as one proposed for this county.

McBride said, "The possibilty of state matching money plus the possibility that the legislature under the influence of Gov. James Rhodes may come through with more yet for vocational education makes me believe the county can and will buy this package."

All county school districts except East Liverpool last year adopted resolutions asking the state to conduct the study.

Subsequently, the chief school administrators named a vocational school committee consisting of McBride, chairman, and Supts. Robert Pond of Salem, Joe W. Driscoll of Lisbon and Roy Cashdollar of Beaver Local.

McBride gave a brief review of the vocational school proposals for three members of the Fairfield - Waterford board of education who attended the county board session.

McBRIDE said the committee recently discussed with the Mahoning County superintendent the possibility of Columbiana County students attending the Mahoning vocational school to be built near Canfield.

He said the state told him it would approve such an arrangement. Mahoning will erect a $5 million school and spend $1 for equipment, McBride said. The board has $7 million available through a five-tenths of a mill levy plus matching funds from the state, he continued. Construction will take about two years.

McBride said three - tenths of a mill probably would cover operating costs of the Mahoning School if Columbiana participated.

He said the northern part of Columbiana County might be interested in the Mahoning school, but the southern part likely would not. "We will have to take the new updated research for a Columbiana County vocational school — all districts except East Liverpool — and if that is not what we want then the alternative would be to join with Mahoning County."

Allan G. Chamberlin of Leetonia RD 2, county board member, said he thinks Columbiana County "would be better off with one of our own." He cited the side benefits of attracting industries through a trained supply of workers and unification of the county rather than dividing it north and south.

Ben Weingart of Leetonia RD, a former member of the county board, expressed his displeasure with the board's action Jan. 20 when it voted 3 to 2 against extending McBride's contract another year from July 31.

He said, "I think you have a proposition now where you could really go to town with this new vocational high school and I don't think we have anybody as qualified to see this through as the man you are going to dispose of. I think it is very unfortunate. I know if it hadn't been for Mr. McBride's untiring efforts there would be no Fairfield-Waterford school district at the present time."

CHAMBERLIN moved that President Donald Rupert of New Waterford notify the superintendent in writing before March 1 of the board's intention not to re-employ him at the end of his contract year July 31.

Chamberlin said the motion was made "to make this legal." There had been some question whether the board's act on Jan. 20 constituted proper notice to the superintendent.

Donald Elliott of Rogers, who with Mrs. Freeman Strabley of Salineville voted last month to extend the contract one more year voted "Yes" last night on Chamberlin's motion along with Rupert, Chamberlin and Olan Sanor of East Rochester RD. Mrs. Strabley voted "no."

Rupert said the board by law must employ a new superintendent by May 1. He said he has received several requests for application forms and will declare the position vacant when the letter is delivered to McBride. The board will meet in executive session next Monday night to work out details for filling the position.

The board authorized McBride to attend the Little Hoover Conference March 15 at Kent State University and Elliott to attend a legislative meeting of the Ohio School Boards Association March 31-April 1 at Columbus.

Newell Man's Hearing Set In Wheeling

A 27-year-old Newell man is among four scheduled for a Wednesday morning hearing in connection with charges of possession of narcotics filed by Wheeling police.

Ronald Pace was charged late Sunday night along with William Burns, 20, of Clark Fork, Idaho, Benjamin Conley Powell, 19, and Samuel C. Moore, 21, both of Wheeling.

The four were arrested following a phoned tip to authorities that an exchange of narcotics would take place.

Police say they found about $360 worth of various drugs in a car which the men were using. Officers waited in unmarked cars along a street in south Wheeling and made the arrests when the men drove up in two cars and then all transferred to one of the vehicles.

Pace and Burns were released after they posted $10,000 bond each before Squire Robert McColloch. McColloch will hear the cases beginning at 11 a. m. Powell and Moore remain in custody.

3 Youths Penalized In Salem Beer Case

LISBON — A 16-year-old Salem youth admitted Monday in Juvenile Court that he bought a case of beer Jan. 31 at Bloor's carryout store in Salem.

Two of his companions, both 16, admitted they helped consume the beer.

Arthur Wickersham, 31, of 411 S. Ellsworth Ave., pleaded not guilty to a charge of contributing to the youths delinquency through sale of the beer. A hearing will be scheduled.

Judge Louis Tobin fined the youths $25 each, ordered them to observe a 9 p. m. curfew until the end of the school year, not to associate with each other, not to drink any intoxicants, including beer, and to report weekly to Probation Officer Cornelius Csepke of Salem.

governments except France — Britain, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg — agreed to consult each other on foreign affairs and to discuss the Middle East at a special meeting in London last Friday.

De Gaulle reportedly considered this meeting a British maneuver to get closer political links with the Continent and approach the Common Market through the back door.

France boycotted the meeting and unsuccessfully demanded the resignation of Maurice Iweins D'Eckhoutte of Belgium, secretary-general of the WEU, for allowing it to be held.

French officials said their government told the organization, Monday it was halting "all activities in WEUs indefinitely" and that France would not attend a WEU council meeting scheduled in London today.

The annual report of the Common Market executive commission, issued Monday, said in effect that France's veto of Britain had caused "a general deterioration of the atmosphere within the community."

On another front, about 50 British organizations reportedly decided in London last night to harass President Nixon with "a massive campaign of militant demonstrations" during his stay in London.

Edward Davoren, secretary of the Revolutionary Student Federation, said the organizers hoped to muster 60,000 supporters to demonstrate at the American Embassy when Nixon arrives and to "hound him from place to place as long as he stays in Britain."

Scotland Yard and American security men are making preparations to protect the President.

Bids Planned On Machines In 2 Offices

Council approved legislation Monday night authorizing the administration to call for bids and award contracts for the purchase of two new business machines for use in City Hall offices.

The resolutions clear the way for purchase of a multiple-purpose accounting machine for use in Auditor L. J. Zollinger's office and a posting machine for use in the income tax office.

Council also gave approval to an ordinance allocating $100 for a new "meal fund" that will be used to provide meal tickets worth $1.50 to certain city employes required to work 10 or more hours continuously.

The provision for the meal tickets was set up in a recent wage settlement with unionized employes. Its main effect would be to provide meals for street department employes working after hours on winter ice and snow control work.

Legislation also was enacted to provide that the city government will continue to supervise the system of adult school crossing guards. The city has given up the responsibility of paying the part-time employes. The legislation provides the city will administer the system and issue the payroll checks, then will be reimbursed by the Board of Education.

Counril approved an ordinance revising the pay increase granted in January to a billing machine operator in the water works department. The increase first was set at 5 per cent in the first year, 6 per cent in the second year and 7 per cent in the third year, but the amended legislation last night cut the boosts to 2 per cent in each year. The new rate conforms to the 2 per cent given all other clerical help.

The pay rates now are set at $428 a month, effective last Jan. 1; $436, effective next Jan. 1, and $445, effective Jan. 1, 1971.

LISBON — The 18th anniversary of the founding of the Auxiliary of the Lisbon Eagles Lodge was observed Sunday in ceremonies beginning at 2:30 p.m.

Mrs. Donna Dotson, president of the Lisbon unit, presided.

Men of the lodge prepared and served a beef dinner at 5:30 to some 130 Auxiliary members, husbands and other guests.

The committee in charge included Mrs. Virginia Hedl, chairman and master of ceremonies, Mrs. Elva Fife, Mrs. Arilla Paulini, Mrs. Clara Wilson, Mrs. Eloise Potter, Mrs. Faye Lewton and Mrs. Beryl Rice.

Washington's Birthday Honored

Washington's birthday was honored when the Lisbon Senior Citizens met at Democratic headquarters Monday, with 40 present.

Mrs. Velva Hively presented an article on the life of Washington and read a poem written by Roy Ewing of Lisbon RD as his school project in 1909. It was recited during he farmers' institute held at the Courthouse in those days.

Mrs. Esher DeTemple presided.

Louis McKenna read the thought for the day, "Today and Tomorrow," and sang two selections in honor of the birthdays of several members. The group sang "Happy Birthday."

The meeting closed with the singing and prayer by the chaplain, Mrs. Ruth Willis. Mrs. Hively was at the piano for group singing.

BPW Conference Set

The Lisbon and Business and Professional Women's Club has launched registration for the "You And The Law" BPW conference March 8-9 in Columbus.

Mrs. Faye Lewton, president of the Lisbon group, announced she has registration cards available which must be returned by March 1.

She urges members to attend pointing out the advantage "of keeping abreast of current legislation."

Officials of the state and national organization will take part in the program.

Patman said the Ford Foundation also spent $446,262 for public relations in 1967, while the Rockefeller Foundation paid $31,546 to a public relations counsel.

Patman said Ford Foundation grants for widening voter registration in Cleveland had been credited with helping Carl B. Stokes win election as mayor. He said its grants for experimental school decentralilation in New York helped trigger a teacher strike.

"Are the giant foundations on the road to becoming political machines?" he asked. "... Does the Ford Foundation have a grandiose plan to bring vast political, economic and social changes to the nation in the 1970's?"

Bids Planned On Machines In 2 Offices

Council approved legislation Monday night authorizing the administration to call for bids and award contracts for the purchase of two new business machines for use in City Hall offices.

The resolutions clear the way for purchase of a multiple-purpose accounting machine for use in Auditor L. J. Zollinger's office and a posting machine for use in the income tax office.

Council also gave approval to an ordinance allocating $100 for a new "meal fund" that will be used to provide meal tickets worth $1.50 to certain city employes required to work 10 or more hours continuously.

The provision for the meal tickets was set up in a recent wage settlement with unionized employes. Its main effect would be to provide meals for street department employes working after hours on winter ice and snow control work.

Legislation also was enacted to provide that the city government will continue to supervise the system of adult school crossing guards. The city has given up the responsibility of paying the part-time employes. The legislation provides the city will administer the system and issue the payroll checks, then will be reimbursed by the Board of Education.

Counril approved an ordinance revising the pay increase granted in January to a billing machine operator in the water works department. The increase first was set at 5 per cent in the first year, 6 per cent in the second year and 7 per cent in the third year, but the amended legislation last night cut the boosts to 2 per cent in each year. The new rate conforms to the 2 per cent given all other clerical help.

The pay rates now are set at $428 a month, effective last Jan. 1; $436, effective next Jan. 1, and $445, effective Jan. 1, 1971.

The Nixon recommendations were shaped by a special task force headed by HEW Secretary Robert H. Finch. One major question, whether Head Start will wind up in the Office of Education or the Children's Bureau under HEW, is still undecided.

Also unsettled is the question of who will run OEO under the Nixon administration.

Peru Poses Problem

Peru's seizure of an American fishing vessel 23 miles from its coast and the fining of the ship's captain is the second provocative incident perpetrated by the Peruvian government in recent months.

It comes on the heels of the expropriation of a subsidiary of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey and the more recent claim by the Peruvian government that the petroleum firm owes it $690 million.

The United States is desirous of maintaining and improving relations with our South American neighbors but in Peru we are dealing with a military junta that seized power only last October.

THE TROUBLE APPARENTLY arose over contractural agreements between the government overthrown by the junta and the American oil firm's subsidiary. Dissenting forces, unhappy with their government's handling of the agreements, howled for expropriation.

Renewed calls for expropriation were heard last summer when the United States government suspended loans to Peru under foreign aid legislation which requires aid cuts to developing nations that spend scarce resources on military weapons.

Peru had recently purchased 16 French jets at $1.2 million each and 50 light tanks. Great Britain also had agreed to sell Peru six bombers for $4.8 million.

The junta now has said that it plans to expand trade with Communist nations. And in the meantime it attacked the press by seizing several of the prominent publications of the country.

The seizure of the American fishing vessel is not a new activity as 74 others have been seized by South American nations since 1961. But, in light of the current strained relations between the two nations, it adds fuel to the fire.

Will Mr. Nixon let the world know that the United States is not to be trifled with? Will our government further reduce or cut off aid to Peru, which already is in a desperate economic condition?

There are those who suggest that this would drive Peru into the arms of the Communists while others say that the nation is moving in that direction anyway and why throw more good money after bad.

OUR ACTIONS will be closely watched by the other Latin American nations. We can score big or we can strike out.

One thing is certain, we cannot tolerate more incidents which even slightly resemble the Pueblo case. The Peruvian claim of 200 miles of territorial waters is ridiculous.

If it is necessary to have naval vessels protect our fishing fleets, then it should be done. The denial of the open seas to American sailors by any nation cannot be tolerated.

'The Good Guys'

"Doing a good job" goes unrecognized in a lot of communities where organizations don't bother to honor those citizens who have applied themselves beyond regular duties to assist others.

In Chester, for example, where Sanford Graham and Tom Bowen were cited by the American Legion Post 121 over the weekend, long years went by without special tribute paid "outstanding citizens."

Occasionally there may not be anyone who meets the qualifications. But in the years there are, the principal benefit is not just in saluting "the good guys" or inspiring others to do as well or better, but in reassuring the community that cynicism and selfishness is not as rampant as many would have us believe.

Student Demands Rise

By Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — As student demonstrations on campuses continue, the demands of the militants keep escalating. Some of the demands are reasonable, but others have built-in mousetraps. A few that I question have to do with student demands that universities take in people whether they're qualified or not; that all students who have flunked out be allowed to return to school, and that professors abolish the system of grading students for their courses.

Art Buchwald

I believe that in the liberal art departments you might not have to be too concerned about high standards — you've seen one economics professor, you've seen them all — but it's in the science and professions that you can get a little tensed up.

IF OUR FUTURE DOCTORS, lawyers, engineers and scientists no longer have to face stiff qualifying examinations, or if the schools refuse to grade them on their abilities, some very weird situations might arise.

A patient goes into a doctor's office.

"What seems to be the trouble?" the doctor asks.

"I have a pain in my side, doctor."

"I don't know anything about pains in the side."

"I thought you were a medical doctor. At least that diploma says so."

"Are you some kind of a racist?"

"No, I'm a patient."

"WELL, IT SO HAPPENS I am a medical doctor. I just didn't do very well in anatomy. Never cared much for it. As a matter of fact, we locked up the dean of the medical school until he agreed to drop anatomy as a required course. We got him to do away with biology, also."

"But if you didn't like anatomy or biology, why did you become an MD?"

"A man has to do someting."

Meanwhile, across town, a man was being tried for first-degree murder and his lawyer and he were listening to the prosecutor.

"I want you, ladies and gentlemen, to send this man to the chair."

The defendant turns to his lawyer and asks, "Can he do that to me?"

The lawyer shrugs. "Beats the hell out of me."

"But you're my lawyer. Don't you know what the law says?"

"I never told anyone this before, but I never really cared much for law. Matter of fact, all during school I had this girl and she had an apartment and. . ."

"Look, I don't care about your girl. My life is at stake. If I lose, will you at least make an appeal?"

"What's an appeal? You start studying about all this legal mumbo-jumbo in college and you won't have any social life at all."

"But the law says. . ." the defendant cried.

"What does the law say? And don't go too fast because I want to write all this down. I never did take notes in school."

The third scene could take place 20 years from now at the new Mayor John V. Lindsay Bridge connecting Long Island with Connecticut.

"That's my job."

"It seems to be sagging at one end. Is that the way it's supposed to be?"

"I'll build the bridges — you cut the ribbon."

"Look, there goes the first truck over the bridge — it's falling. DOUBLEDAY, THE ENTIRE BRIDGE IS FALLING!"

"Sorry about that. I never could figure out how to use a slide rule."

'What's A Few Billion, More Or Less, To Keep You Dry?'

Letters To The Editor

Booth Bias Denied

I read the Letters to the Editor column in the Review in regard to only two black athletes ever being given the Bill Booth Award with some great concern as I have been a sports fan in East Liverpool ever since the inception of this award and have been privileged on numerous occasions to be asked to vote for the football player to be given this trophy and recognition.

From the writer's attitude, it is apparent that he feels the Negro football player has been unjustly discriminated against, and from my personal experience in this balloting I can assure you that nothing could be further from the truth. There is no more basis for such an assumption than there would be in saying that Bill Booth himself was unfair because he happened to be a white boy and happened to be probably the best football player that ever played for ELHS.

There have also been many great Negro football players at ELHS, and perhaps the solution to the writer's problem would be for him to establish a "Tom Bell Award" or a "Joe Thompson Award" and give them only to Negro players.

All senior players are eligible for this award and are graded on their ability, leadership, sportsmanship and scholastic rating; unfortunately, regardless of their rating in the first three categories it seems that the Negro player often falls short in the last category which results in his losing out on 25 per cent of the basis for consideration. In addition, you must remember that there are also more white players than there are Negroes, so naturally there are less Negroes even eligible comparatively speaking. The very fact that in past years two Negroes were selected as winners proves that they receive the same consideration as every other senior player does.

I have many Negro friends and acquaintances, and a great number of them agree with my philosophy that people must earn what they receive and simply giving things to persons because of the color of their skin has no merit and solves no problems. There has never been a Negro valedictorian or salutatorian at ELHS either, but this does not mean that the Negro student has been treated unfairly. A timely article was on your feature page in the same edition relating the story of how Raymond Buzzard, who came from parents of modest means, worked his way through college and became a lawyer and now a judge. This is desire, determination, ambition and the drive necessary to accomplish one's goals. If one aspires to success and status, and position he must, and he should, work for it.

I think we all agree that the Negro has been the victim of discrimination in the past in many areas, but in this era of more widely practiced brotherhood I believe his future depends upon what he is willing to work for and produce, and I recommend that anyone who is not content with his station in life to get off his seat and work for something better instead of griping about what everyone else should give him or do for him.

Deserved Awards

I can't discuss football players in East Liverpool before 1966—whether they were black or white athletes—but I do know that Mike McVay was undoubtedly the finest athlete playing both offense and defense on the 1967-68 team.

Jim Musuraca was the outstanding member on the 1968-69 team, also playing both offense and defense. I wonder how many yards Sonny Clark would have gained without Jim Musuraca blocking for him. Jim Musuraca is an outstanding example to underclassmen, being a class officer, a member of the National Honor Society and a person of good character. As I understand the Bill Booth Award, he was the perfect recipient.

There is no doubt in anyone's mind that Jerry Christian is the most valuable player on the fine East Liverpool basketball team. He will be most deserving of that award. Jerry Christian is also an excellent example to the students whether they are Afro-American, Irish-American, Italian-American or Indian-American. Maybe someday we can again be just plain "Americans."

Please don't print my name or address, because it is obvious I am a "prejudiced" white student. I don't want any crank calls. I felt something had to be said which no one would say.

Who Knows?

Truthfully speaking, who knows the future or the fate of our fair city? Who knows?

Basically speaking, it exists as it did a decade ago with only few and minor alterations accomplished. Can it expand or do its "rubber band" suburbs keep its nucleus so compact that it only stretches for a Sunday afternoon drive?

Who knows—will the city have an eight or a four - lane bridge or would a 'ferry service' be the answer to the wide river gap?

Who knows — will the city share its title with Japan, or will it progress with different ideas to remain "the pottery center?"

Who knows — will the city have high-rise parking garages, or will it maintain the century old brick streets, which have no access to the proposed facilities?

Who knows — does the city possess its educated graduates, or does it lose them to other communities which warrant their knowledge?

Who knows — does the city need a new jail or should the prisoner be admitted to the North Side fire station for proper care?

Who knows — will the city use the new airport, which it has worked so hard for, or will its populus fear air-taxi skyjacking?

Who knows—does the term city mean "people?" If it does, only suggestions bring about results. If we let our city remain in a basically dormant state, then this letter applies to two categories:

1. The local government
2. The local citizen

I defend one of the above, although my concern is for the city. I repeat; who knows the future or the fate of our fair city? Who knows .....I don't!!!!!!

From History

Lincoln's birthday, just past, brings to mind his Gettysburg address; this in turn brings to mind the Battle of Gettysburg. We too quickly forget the so-called "Wheat Field" was the most blood-soaked of any spot of earth in our American history. The Gettysburg Guides and Booklets tell us the field could not be crossed by a person setting his feet on the ground — the slain bodies furnishing stepping stones.

Wars are fought, men die and we ask, "Why? Why?"

These men who died at Gettysburg—why did they die? Not to protect a loved one or relative or friend; not to seek revenge for the defiling of a loved one — then why? Why?

We hear much lately about reparation payment due descendents of slaves. Who is to pay reparation for the blood shed at Gettysburg and in other battles? The answer would be quick—"we did not ask the North to fight the South in our cause—we were housed, fed and given medical care. We were not so mistreated as to interfere with our working ability; no plantation owner would so work against his own interest. Who does not remember the days of his childhood when his mother's complaint was, "your dad thinks more of his horse than he does of his kids".

The plantation owner trusted his Negro coachman to drive his wife, or the young 'Belle' of his household all over the country side.

Demonstrations are being held, demanding the history of the black people of America be taught. This history could not avoid Gettysburg, and the answer for all the blood shed.

Please do not misinterpret the above. My temper flares when news reporters write—"so and so, a Negro, did such and such". Persons who know "so and so" also know his race; persons who do not know "so and so" could care less about the incident or person involved.

Remember when articles read, "so and so, a veteran?" Was the crime worse because he was a veteran?

In this case, he did not need to be identified as a veteran by persons who knew him.

I call upon my grandparents, "Tales of the Times" for the above material of Civil War times. My grandfather also knew the degradation, as many others did, of Andersonville prison.

The above is a good treatise for the time when wars may be fought with time, money and words.

Bureaucrats

A long while ago I was a minor official in an incoming administration under a new president and a new political control of Congress. I realized then and I have reflected since how difficult it is to change things in the routine of government and how firmly entrenched is the bureaucracy which takes our tax dollars and spends them theoretically for our good.

And the bureaucracy then was one-fifth the size to which it has grown since.

And so to learn what a new Nixon appointee experienced during his novitiate in office I asked a friend to write to me after his first week or so. He is not one of the people you read about in the papers. And here he must be nameless.

THE DEPARTMENT where he works is not relevant for the same situation prevails everywhere in Washington. Many others must be having the same experience but my friend is more articulate. I shall for that reason quote him substantially:

"In these early days of rope-learning, the innocent assumes that he can grab a 'problem,' think it through, run with it, maybe even 'solve' it. But just when it gets most interesting it starts to be someone else's problem. Jurisdictions intermesh and are often mutually contradictory.

"You learn that although you get the dough, someone else gets the 'implementation authority.' And though you get both the dough and the authority, you find that it is the baby of some other bureau down the line that has been carefully cultivating constituencies around the country and—most of all—up on Congressional Hill. And woe to him who attempts to exercise some rational control over the activity involved.

"The innocent of whom I speak—myself—gets an early warning no matter what ideological baggage he comes equipped with (no matter how sincerely he is dedicated to the primacy of Congress in our federal system) the Hill almost automatically becomes 'the enemy.' It has to be wangled into ordering you to do what you wanted to do in the first place.

"Every new apprentice should be forced to study some form of calculus before 'taking over' in the 'new leadership' team. Because everything is in constant motion, there is no time to stop and think. No time to put things in order. And the 'new approach' may remain mere rhetoric—maybe forever.

It may well be that the old 'implementor' does not care a bit how a thing shall be done so long as he keeps the 'new team' occupied. Maybe, if a few key gears are slipped into the new patterns, the whole machine will slip into similar patterns. And then maybe not.

"The us-them syndrome is probably inevitable, at least until the distinction between the newcomers and the veterans fades out. When a group of 'new boys' comes in, there is a tendency to build among the veterans a sort of compound. The 'sahibs' surrounded by the 'natives.'

To change the figure of speech, it suggests the mystery which presently occupies medical science: what is the nature of the resistance of the body to the transplanting of an organ into living tissue?

"My guess is that as long as this resistance remains, the sharper will be the split between mere rhetorical intentions and actual operations. The inexorable fact is that 'out there' are any number of dedicated people — real professionals — who know more about more different things than anyone else. They have seen so many things tried, and have seen them succeed or fail, that they are the experts.

"So how do you identify them? How do you know how much reliance you can place upon them? How do you devise a Geiger counter to determine how ardently they want the new administration to succeed? Or to keep out of trouble? But to make the job of appraisal most difficult, they are the people who have the answers to the questions of the new people.

SOMEHOW THE INNOCENT must dredge up, out of his own general knowledge — which may be too general for the specifics at hand — the right questions to ask. He must keep flying, bravely enough, his 'show me' flag until his own experience teaches him to operate with more assurance. The next few months should be most exciting. By that time, hopefully, the innocent may have been domesticated into the ranks of 'them.'"

If my young friend maintains his sanity and equilibrium as he penetrates more deeply into the labyrinthian coils of the bureaucracy, I hope I shall hear from him again. For his story is that of the many innovators who have been swept into power by political caprice. For innovation must adjust itself to the necessity of governing a nation.

"I thought you were a medical doctor. At least that diploma says so."

"Are you some kind of a racist?"

"No, I'm a patient."

"WELL, IT SO HAPPENS I am a medical doctor. I just didn't do very well in anatomy. Never cared much for it. As a matter of fact, we locked up the dean of the medical school until he agreed to drop anatomy as a required course. We got him to do away with biology, also."

"But if you didn't like anatomy or biology, why did you become an MD?"

"A man has to do someting."

Meanwhile, across town, a man was being tried for first-degree murder and his lawyer and he were listening to the prosecutor.

"I want you, ladies and gentlemen, to send this man to the chair."

The defendant turns to his lawyer and asks, "Can he do that to me?"

The lawyer shrugs. "Beats the hell out of me."

"But you're my lawyer. Don't you know what the law says?"

"I never told anyone this before, but I never really cared much for law. Matter of fact, all during school I had this girl and she had an apartment and. . ."

"Look, I don't care about your girl. My life is at stake. If I lose, will you at least make an appeal?"

"What's an appeal? You start studying about all this legal mumbo-jumbo in college and you won't have any social life at all."

"But the law says. . ." the defendant cried.

"What does the law say? And don't go too fast because I want to write all this down. I never did take notes in school."

The third scene could take place 20 years from now at the new Mayor John V. Lindsay Bridge connecting Long Island with Connecticut.

THE ENGINEER is standing on the platform with the dignitaries.

"That's my job."

"It seems to be sagging at one end. Is that the way it's supposed to be?"

"I'll build the bridges — you cut the ribbon."

"Look, there goes the first truck over the bridge — it's falling. DOUBLEDAY, THE ENTIRE BRIDGE IS FALLING!"

Booth Bias Denied

I read the Letters to the Editor column in the Review in regard to only two black athletes ever being given the Bill Booth Award with some great concern as I have been a sports fan in East Liverpool ever since the inception of this award and have been privileged on numerous occasions to be asked to vote for the football player to be given this trophy and recognition.

From the writer's attitude, it is apparent that he feels the Negro football player has been unjustly discriminated against, and from my personal experience in this balloting I can assure you that nothing could be further from the truth. There is no more basis for such an assumption than there would be in saying that Bill Booth himself was unfair because he happened to be a white boy and happened to be probably the best football player that ever played for ELHS.

There have also been many great Negro football players at ELHS, and perhaps the solution to the writer's problem would be for him to establish a "Tom Bell Award" or a "Joe Thompson Award" and give them only to Negro players.

All senior players are eligible for this award and are graded on their ability, leadership, sportsmanship and scholastic rating; unfortunately, regardless of their rating in the first three categories it seems that the Negro player often falls short in the last category which results in his losing out on 25 per cent of the basis for consideration. In addition, you must remember that there are also more white players than there are Negroes, so naturally there are less Negroes even eligible comparatively speaking. The very fact that in past years two Negroes were selected as winners proves that they receive the same consideration as every other senior player does.

I have many Negro friends and acquaintances, and a great number of them agree with my philosophy that people must earn what they receive and simply giving things to persons because of the color of their skin has no merit and solves no problems. There has never been a Negro valedictorian or salutatorian at ELHS either, but this does not mean that the Negro student has been treated unfairly. A timely article was on your feature page in the same edition relating the story of how Raymond Buzzard, who came from parents of modest means, worked his way through college and became a lawyer and now a judge. This is desire, determination, ambition and the drive necessary to accomplish one's goals. If one aspires to success and status, and position he must, and he should, work for it.

I think we all agree that the Negro has been the victim of discrimination in the past in many areas, but in this era of more widely practiced brotherhood I believe his future depends upon what he is willing to work for and produce, and I recommend that anyone who is not content with his station in life to get off his seat and work for something better instead of griping about what everyone slse should give him or do for him.

Deserved Awards

I can't discuss football players in East Liverpool before 1966—whether they were black or white athletes—but I do know that Mike McVay was undoubtedly the finest athlete playing both offense and defense on the 1967-68 team.

Jim Musuraca was the outstanding member on the 1968-69 team, also playing both offense and defense. I wonder how many yards Sonny Clark would have gained without Jim Musuraca blocking for him. Jim Musuraca is an outstanding example to underclassmen, being a class officer, a member of the National Honor Society and a person of good character. As I understand the Bill Booth Award, he was the perfect recipient.

There is no doubt in anyone's mind that Jerry Christian is the most valuable player on the fine East Liverpool basketball team. He will be most deserving of that award. Jerry Christian is also an excellent example to the students whether they are Afro-American, Irish-American, Italian-American or Indian-American. Maybe someday we can again be just plain "Americans."

Please don't print my name or address, because it is obvious I am a "prejudiced" white student. I don't want any crank calls. I felt something had to be said which no one would say.

Who Knows?

Truthfully speaking, who knows the future or the fate of our fair city? Who knows?

Basically speaking, it exists as it did a decade ago with only few and minor alterations accomplished. Can it expand or do its "rubber band" suburbs keep its nucleus so compact that it only stretches for a Sunday afternoon drive?

Who knows—will the city have an eight or a four - lane bridge or would a 'ferry service' be the answer to the wide river gap?

Who knows — will the city share its title with Japan, or will it progress with different ideas to remain "the pottery center?"

Who knows — will the city have high-rise parking garages, or will it maintain the century old brick streets, which have no access to the proposed facilities?

Who knows — does the city possess its educated graduates, or does it lose them to other communities which warrant their knowledge?

Who knows — does the city need a new jail or should the prisoner be admitted to the North Side fire station for proper care?

Who knows — will the city use the new airport, which it has worked so hard for, or will its populus fear air-taxi skyjacking?

Who knows—does the term city mean "people?" If it does, only suggestions bring about results. If we let our city remain in a basically dormant state, then this letter applies to two categories:

1. The local government
2. The local citizen

I defend one of the above, although my concern is for the city. I repeat; who knows the future or the fate of our fair city? Who knows .....I don't!!!!!!

From History

Lincoln's birthday, just past, brings to mind his Gettysburg address; this in turn brings to mind the Battle of Gettysburg. We too quickly forget the so-called "Wheat Field" was the most blood-soaked of any spot of earth in our American history. The Gettysburg Guides and Booklets tell us the field could not be crossed by a person setting his feet on the ground — the slain bodies furnishing stepping stones.

Wars are fought, men die and we ask, "Why? Why?"

These men who died at Gettysburg—why did they die? Not to protect a loved one or relative or friend; not to seek revenge for the defiling of a loved one — then why? Why?

We hear much lately about reparation payment due descendents of slaves. Who is to pay reparation for the blood shed at Gettysburg and in other battles? The answer would be quick—"we did not ask the North to fight the South in our cause—we were housed, fed and given medical care. We were not so mistreated as to interfere with our working ability; no plantation owner would so work against his own interest. Who does not remember the days of his childhood when his mother's complaint was, "your dad thinks more of his horse than he does of his kids".

The plantation owner trusted his Negro coachman to drive his wife, or the young 'Belle' of his household all over the country side.

Demonstrations are being held, demanding the history of the black people of America be taught. This history could not avoid Gettysburg, and the answer for all the blood shed.

Please do not misinterpret the above. My temper flares when news reporters write—"so and so, a Negro, did such and such". Persons who know "so and so" also know his race; persons who do not know "so and so" could care less about the incident or person involved.

Remember when articles read, "so and so, a veteran?" Was the crime worse because he was a veteran?

In this case, he did not need to be identified as a veteran by persons who knew him.

I call upon my grandparents, "Tales of the Times" for the above material of Civil War times. My grandfather also knew the degradation, as many others did, of Andersonville prison.

The above is a good treatise for the time when wars may be fought with time, money and words.

Bureaucrats

A long while ago I was a minor official in an incoming administration under a new president and a new political control of Congress. I realized then and I have reflected since how difficult it is to change things in the routine of government and how firmly entrenched is the bureaucracy which takes our tax dollars and spends them theoretically for our good.

And the bureaucracy then was one-fifth the size to which it has grown since.

And so to learn what a new Nixon appointee experienced during his novitiate in office I asked a friend to write to me after his first week or so. He is not one of the people you read about in the papers. And here he must be nameless.

THE DEPARTMENT where he works is not relevant for the same situation prevails everywhere in Washington. Many others must be having the same experience but my friend is more articulate. I shall for that reason quote him substantially:

"In these early days of rope-learning, the innocent assumes that he can grab a 'problem,' think it through, run with it, maybe even 'solve' it. But just when it gets most interesting it starts to be someone else's problem. Jurisdictions intermesh and are often mutually contradictory.

"You learn that although you get the dough, someone else gets the 'implementation authority.' And though you get both the dough and the authority, you find that it is the baby of some other bureau down the line that has been carefully cultivating constituencies around the country and—most of all—up on Congressional Hill. And woe to him who attempts to exercise some rational control over the activity involved.

"The innocent of whom I speak—myself—gets an early warning no matter what ideological baggage he comes equipped with (no matter how sincerely he is dedicated to the primacy of Congress in our federal system) the Hill almost automatically becomes 'the enemy.' It has to be wangled into ordering you to do what you wanted to do in the first place.

"Every new apprentice should be forced to study some form of calculus before 'taking over' in the 'new leadership' team. Because everything is in constant motion, there is no time to stop and think. No time to put things in order. And the 'new approach' may remain mere rhetoric—maybe forever.

It may well be that the old 'implementor' does not care a bit how a thing shall be done so long as he keeps the 'new team' occupied. Maybe, if a few key gears are slipped into the new patterns, the whole machine will slip into similar patterns. And then maybe not.

"The us-them syndrome is probably inevitable, at least until the distinction between the newcomers and the veterans fades out. When a group of 'new boys' comes in, there is a tendency to build among the veterans a sort of compound. The 'sahibs' surrounded by the 'natives.'

To change the figure of speech, it suggests the mystery which presently occupies medical science: what is the nature of the resistance of the body to the transplanting of an organ into living tissue?

"My guess is that as long as this resistance remains, the sharper will be the split between mere rhetorical intentions and actual operations. The inexorable fact is that 'out there' are any number of dedicated people — real professionals — who know more about more different things than anyone else. They have seen so many things tried, and have seen them succeed or fail, that they are the experts.

"So how do you identify them? How do you know how much reliance you can place upon them? How do you devise a Geiger counter to determine how ardently they want the new administration to succeed? Or to keep out of trouble? But to make the job of appraisal most difficult, they are the people who have the answers to the questions of the new people.

SOMEHOW THE INNOCENT must dredge up, out of his own general knowledge — which may be too general for the specifics at hand — the right questions to ask. He must keep flying, bravely enough, his 'show me' flag until his own experience teaches him to operate with more assurance. The next few months should be most exciting. By that time, hopefully, the innocent may have been domesticated into the ranks of 'them.'"

If my young friend maintains his sanity and equilibrium as he penetrates more deeply into the labyrinthian coils of the bureaucracy, I hope I shall hear from him again. For his story is that of the many innovators who have been swept into power by political caprice. For innovation must adjust itself to the necessity of governing a nation.

Pueblo Officer Tells Of Torture

Current Code Of Conduct For Military Criticized

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — The U.S. Code of Conduct for servicemen taken prisoner doesn't "apply itself well" to modern psychological warfare, says the USS Pueblo's second in command.

"The underlying principle behind it must be maintained—that is, loyalty to our government," Lt. Edward R. Murphy Jr. told a Navy court of inquiry Monday after saying he signed a fraudulent spy confession following two days of North Korean torture and two death threats.

"But the state of the art (of war) has changed considerably . . . now we have a psychological warfare environment and I don't think it (the code) applies itself well in that environment."

Murphy was asked about the code by an attorney for Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher, skipper of the Pueblo. Bucher told the court four weeks ago that North Koreans used torture to make him admit falsely to spying. Murphy was Bucher's execuive officer.

The court's investigating why the ship surrendered without a fight and the conduct of the crew as prisoners.

Murphy, 31, was the first to appear in the conduct phase of the inquiry. He said he considered his confession a deviation from the code. He said the code was posted on the intelligence ship before it was captured by the North Koreans last year. Its men were released 11 months later—just before Christmas.

The code, promulgated by former President Eisenhower after the Korean War, prohibits U.S. military men from divulging anything but name, rank, serial number and date of birth to their captors.

Murphy said he made a false confession to spying—and to invading North Korean territorial waters—but not before the North Koreans gave him three bloody beatings, threatened twice to kill him and he heard what sounded like Bucher and other officers confessing.

Murphy said he was stripped to his shorts and forced to crouch and balance on the balls of his feet with a stick about one and one-half inches thick behind his knees.

The effect of the stick, he said, "is to deaden the sensation in the bottom of your legs. I lost control of my legs and started to quiver.

"They hit me in the face and chest and kicked me backwards . . . another kicked me forward. It was back and forth until I was on the deck, and then they kicked me until I stood up. And then it was back down on the stick again.

"I don't know how many evolutions like that I made but on at least six occasions I passed out from being kicked . . . one of the times I fell over I was kicked severely in the side of the head and it split my ear open. There was an area on the floor completely covered with blood from my ear and I was cut on the lip.

"The one piece of clothing I did have, the shorts, were pretty well bathed in blood. I told them I was ready to sign what they wanted."

Vice Adm. Harold G. Bowen Jr., president of the court asked, "What was more influential . . . the belief that your shipmates had capitulated or the physical treatment given you?"

A. Murphy: "I was ready to endure more. I was in a physical state in which I well could have gone on forever—probably in oblivion . . . (but why should I as an individual fight the war singlehandedly when others and the whole ship seemed to have fallen . . . I felt it would have been a useless attempt on my part to avoid the reality that was at hand."

Q. "What was the single most significant factor?"

A. "I would have to say the fact that I'd found my action was useless—nothing to be served, nothing to be gained by continuing resisting when others had already capitulated."

Nurses Offered New Oportunity In Air Reserve

An opportunity for graduate nurses of at least a three-year nursing course to become flight nurses in the Air Force Reserve has been announced by Capt. George L. Parsons, medical administrative officer of the 33rd Aeromedical Evacuation Squadron at the Greater Pittsburgh Airport.

"Nurses between 20 and 35 who can meet the physical requirements will be commissioned as lieutenants or captains in the Air Force Nurse Corps," Capt. Parsons said. "This program provides spare time training which enhances the professional qualifications of a nurse while providing generous pay and retirement credit."

The 33rd Aeromedical Evacuation Squadron, the largest Air Force Reserve unit of its kind in the country, is a part of the 911th Military Airlift Group which flies the giant C-124 Globemasters in the tri-state area. Flight nurses of the 33rd are members of the aircrews which fly air evacuation missions throughout the world.

Air Force Reserve flight nurses train one weekend per month plus an annual 15 day active duty for training tour and up to 36 additional flying training periods of four hours each per year.

Newly - commissioned flight nurses are required within their first year to attend the School of Aerospace Medicine, a six-week course, at San Antonio, Tex., and may attend a three-week orientation course for new nurses.

Further details may be obtained by contacting Capt. Parsons.

Three More Ohioans Killed In Vietnam

Red Guards Halt Traffic To Autobahn

BERLIN (AP) — East German border guards halted traffic through West Berlin's main entrance to the autobahn for two hours today, then began letting cars through again, West Berlin police reported.

Traffic through other checkpoints on the roads between West Berlin and West Germany was delayed, with long lines of cars and trucks piling up. But it was not stopped.

It could not be determined how much of the delay was due to the new regulations and how much to the snow on the highways.

Traffic on the autobahns has been delayed since Feb. 15, when the East Germans imposed new restrictions on the surface routes to West Berlin in retaliation for the West German government's plan to hold its presidential election in West Berlin March 5.

The new regulatitns ban the more than 1,000 members of the electoral assembly from using the surface routes, along with other persons concerned with the election and all members of the West German armed forces. Since then the East German guards have been carefully checking all cars and trucks making the 110-mile trip to the Communist-surrounded city, ostensibly to enforce the new regulations.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. — The only thing wrong with my electric clothes dryer is that my laundry lacks that fresh, clean, outdoor aroma it formerly acquired when hung out-of-doors. Any suggestions?

A. — If you'll place your basketbull of wash outdoors for an hour or so before ironing (summer and wniter), you'll acheve that familiar smell of yesteryear.

Q.—How can I improvise a colander in my kitchen?

A — Press aluminum foil over the top of a bowl, secure it with a rubber band, then punch holes through it with an ice pick. This works fine, even for draining such things as spaghetti.

Q.—How can I clean out the holes in the bottom of my steam iron?

A.—An excellent gadget for this is an ordinary pipe cleaner dipped in a solution of detergent and water. Many other such handy tips are included in my household manual.

Q.—How can I keep cheese from drying out?

Rise Noted In Palestine Power Output

EAST PALESTINE — Power production at the city's electrical generation station increased almost a million kilowatt hours in 1968, Council was advised Monday.

Safety - Service Director George McGuckin said the plant produced 28,114,800 kilowatt hours last year, compared with 27,166,000 in 1967.

Revenue from the facility was also up, according to McGuckin, who said income during 1968 was $527,604. In 1967, revenue amounted to $533,061, but included an insurance payment of $14,500 for damage caused by lightning which hit a generator at the plant.

Coal consumption declined from 51½ million pounds to 48 million pounds, but the cost of coal went up from $105,998 to $115,832, he said.

For the first time in city history, a detailed report was given on the amount of power used without charge by various public facilities. Meters have been installed, McGuckin said.

Cost of power for the City Park, city buildings, street lighting and library was $37,597, he reported.

McGuckin was appointed city bridge inspector by Council, which was advsed by City Solicitor Jack Cohen a new Ohio law requires municipalities to provide regular inspection of bridges.

The city has various small culvert style spans along with four or five larger concrete bridges and also maintains the overhead bridges of the Penn Central Railroad.

Muskie Calls Draft System Unfair, Unjust In Ohio Talk

OXFORD, Ohio (AP) — Sen. Edmund Muskie branded as "unfair and unjust" the nation's military draft system in an address at Miami University Monday night before approximately 5,000 persons.

The Maine Democrat's 50-minute speech was interrupted several times by thunderous applause. He was key speaker at the school's 160th anniversary celebration.

"Many of you feel—and with good reason—that the present system and its procedures are unfair and have little relevance to our goals and motivations," Muskie said.

But the senator questioned whether the all-volunteer army being advocated by several of his colleagues was the answer. The volunteer plan is keyed to providing sufficient pay and other incentives to attract enough manpower.

"Should not military service in a democratic society be a responsibility unrelated to economic status," he asked.

"Black Americans reenlist in the army at a higher percentage than whites because there is less opportunity for them if they return to civilian life.

"Could not the billions of dollars which we would spend to operate a professional army be better spent equalizing the opportunities of civilian life?"

Muskie, the vice presidential candidate in the last election, recommended these changes in present draft laws:

—Regional selective service boards operating under uniform standards, in place of the 4,000 local boards.

—Selection based on a lottery covering all eligible at the age of 19.

—Affording the draftee various choices of service, "military and otherwise, which have been determined to be relevant to the needs of the nation."

Classes Dismissed In Bomb Scare Here

Assistant Supt. Carl Pelini said the call was received about 12:30 p.m. Because of its nature, police decided a thorough search should be made. The students were then dismissed for the day rather than be sent outside while the search was made.

Pelini said the caller seemed very brazen and did not hang up quickly, as is usually the case. Police and firemen both searched the building.

Another call was received at 3:43 p.m. saying there had been a bomb planted at East Elementary.

Pelini said classes there already had been dismissed at the usual time and no students were in the building.

Pueblo Officer Tells Of Torture

Current Code Of Conduct For Military Criticized

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — The U.S. Code of Conduct for servicemen taken prisoner doesn't "apply itself well" to modern psychological warfare, says the USS Pueblo's second in command.

"The underlying principle behind it must be maintained—that is, loyalty to our government," Lt. Edward R. Murphy Jr. told a Navy court of inquiry Monday after saying he signed a fraudulent spy confession following two days of North Korean torture and two death threats.

"But the state of the art (of war) has changed considerably . . . now we have a psychological warfare environment and I don't think it (the code) applies itself well in that environment."

Murphy was asked about the code by an attorney for Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher, skipper of the Pueblo. Bucher told the court four weeks ago that North Koreans used torture to make him admit falsely to spying. Murphy was Bucher's execuive officer.

The court's investigating why the ship surrendered without a fight and the conduct of the crew as prisoners.

Murphy, 31, was the first to appear in the conduct phase of the inquiry. He said he considered his confession a deviation from the code. He said the code was posted on the intelligence ship before it was captured by the North Koreans last year. Its men were released 11 months later—just before Christmas.

The code, promulgated by former President Eisenhower after the Korean War, prohibits U.S. military men from divulging anything but name, rank, serial number and date of birth to their captors.

Murphy said he made a false confession to spying—and to invading North Korean territorial waters—but not before the North Koreans gave him three bloody beatings, threatened twice to kill him and he heard what sounded like Bucher and other officers confessing.

Murphy said he was stripped to his shorts and forced to crouch and balance on the balls of his feet with a stick about one and one-half inches thick behind his knees.

The effect of the stick, he said, "is to deaden the sensation in the bottom of your legs. I lost control of my legs and started to quiver.

"They hit me in the face and chest and kicked me backwards . . . another kicked me forward. It was back and forth until I was on the deck, and then they kicked me until I stood up. And then it was back down on the stick again.

"I don't know how many evolutions like that I made but on at least six occasions I passed out from being kicked . . . one of the times I fell over I was kicked severely in the side of the head and it split my ear open. There was an area on the floor completely covered with blood from my ear and I was cut on the lip.

"The one piece of clothing I did have, the shorts, were pretty well bathed in blood. I told them I was ready to sign what they wanted."

Vice Adm. Harold G. Bowen Jr., president of the court asked, "What was more influential . . . the belief that your shipmates had capitulated or the physical treatment given you?"

A. Murphy: "I was ready to endure more. I was in a physical state in which I well could have gone on forever—probably in oblivion . . . (but why should I as an individual fight the war singlehandedly when others and the whole ship seemed to have fallen . . . I felt it would have been a useless attempt on my part to avoid the reality that was at hand."

Q. "What was the single most significant factor?"

A. "I would have to say the fact that I'd found my action was useless—nothing to be served, nothing to be gained by continuing resisting when others had already capitulated."

Nurses Offered New Oportunity In Air Reserve

An opportunity for graduate nurses of at least a three-year nursing course to become flight nurses in the Air Force Reserve has been announced by Capt. George L. Parsons, medical administrative officer of the 33rd Aeromedical Evacuation Squadron at the Greater Pittsburgh Airport.

"Nurses between 20 and 35 who can meet the physical requirements will be commissioned as lieutenants or captains in the Air Force Nurse Corps," Capt. Parsons said. "This program provides spare time training which enhances the professional qualifications of a nurse while providing generous pay and retirement credit."

The 33rd Aeromedical Evacuation Squadron, the largest Air Force Reserve unit of its kind in the country, is a part of the 911th Military Airlift Group which flies the giant C-124 Globemasters in the tri-state area. Flight nurses of the 33rd are members of the aircrews which fly air evacuation missions throughout the world.

Air Force Reserve flight nurses train one weekend per month plus an annual 15 day active duty for training tour and up to 36 additional flying training periods of four hours each per year.

Newly - commissioned flight nurses are required within their first year to attend the School of Aerospace Medicine, a six-week course, at San Antonio, Tex., and may attend a three-week orientation course for new nurses.

Further details may be obtained by contacting Capt. Parsons.

Red Guards Halt Traffic To Autobahn

BERLIN (AP) — East German border guards halted traffic through West Berlin's main entrance to the autobahn for two hours today, then began letting cars through again, West Berlin police reported.

Traffic through other checkpoints on the roads between West Berlin and West Germany was delayed, with long lines of cars and trucks piling up. But it was not stopped.

It could not be determined how much of the delay was due to the new regulations and how much to the snow on the highways.

Traffic on the autobahns has been delayed since Feb. 15, when the East Germans imposed new restrictions on the surface routes to West Berlin in retaliation for the West German government's plan to hold its presidential election in West Berlin March 5.

The new regulatitns ban the more than 1,000 members of the electoral assembly from using the surface routes, along with other persons concerned with the election and all members of the West German armed forces. Since then the East German guards have been carefully checking all cars and trucks making the 110-mile trip to the Communist-surrounded city, ostensibly to enforce the new regulations.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. — The only thing wrong with my electric clothes dryer is that my laundry lacks that fresh, clean, outdoor aroma it formerly acquired when hung out-of-doors. Any suggestions?

A. — If you'll place your basketbull of wash outdoors for an hour or so before ironing (summer and writer), you'll acheve that familiar smell of yesteryear.

Q.—How can I improvise a colander in my kitchen?

A — Press aluminum foil over the top of a bowl, secure it with a rubber band, then punch holes through it with an ice pick. This works fine, even for draining such things as spaghetti.

Q.—How can I clean out the holes in the bottom of my steam iron?

A.—An excellent gadget for this is an ordinary pipe cleaner dipped in a solution of detergent and water. Many other such handy tips are included in my household manual.

Q.—How can I keep cheese from drying out?

Rise Noted In Palestine Power Output

EAST PALESTINE — Power production at the city's electrical generation station increased almost a million kilowatt hours in 1968, Council was advised Monday.

Safety - Service Director George McGuckin said the plant produced 28,114,800 kilowatt hours last year, compared with 27,166,000 in 1967.

Revenue from the facility was also up, according to McGuckin, who said income during 1968 was $527,604. In 1967, revenue amounted to $533,061, but included an insurance payment of $14,500 for damage caused by lightning which hit a generator at the plant.

Coal consumption declined from 51½ million pounds to 48 million pounds, but the cost of coal went up from $105,998 to $115,832, he said.

For the first time in city history, a detailed report was given on the amount of power used without charge by various public facilities. Meters have been installed, McGuckin said.

Cost of power for the City Park, city buildings, street lighting and library was $37,597, he reported.

McGuckin was appointed city bridge inspector by Council, which was advsed by City Solicitor Jack Cohen a new Ohio law requires municipalities to provide regular inspection of bridges.

Muskie Calls Draft System Unfair, Unjust In Ohio Talk

OXFORD, Ohio (AP) — Sen. Edmund Muskie branded as "unfair and unjust" the nation's military draft system in an address at Miami University Monday night before approximately 5,000 persons.

The Maine Democrat's 50-minute speech was interrupted several times by thunderous applause. He was key speaker at the school's 160th anniversary celebration.

"Many of you feel—and with good reason—that the present system and its procedures are unfair and have little relevance to our goals and motivations," Muskie said.

But the senator questioned whether the all-volunteer army being advocated by several of his colleagues was the answer. The volunteer plan is keyed to providing sufficient pay and other incentives to attract enough manpower.

"Should not military service in a democratic society be a responsibility unrelated to economic status," he asked.

"Black Americans reenlist in the army at a higher percentage than whites because there is less opportunity for them if they return to civilian life.

"Could not the billions of dollars which we would spend to operate a professional army be better spent equalizing the opportunities of civilian life?"

Muskie, the vice presidential candidate in the last election, recommended these changes in present draft laws:

—Regional selective service boards operating under uniform standards, in place of the 4,000 local boards.

—Selection based on a lottery covering all eligible at the age of 19.

—Affording the draftee various choices of service, "military and otherwise, which have been determined to be relevant to the needs of the nation."

Classes Dismissed In Bomb Scare Here

Assistant Supt. Carl Pelini said the call was received about 12:30 p.m. Because of its nature, police decided a thorough search should be made. The students were then dismissed for the day rather than be sent outside while the search was made.

Pelini said the caller seemed very brazen and did not hang up quickly, as is usually the case. Police and firemen both searched the building.

Another call was received at 3:43 p.m. saying there had been a bomb planted at East Elementary.

Pelini said classes there already had been dismissed at the usual time and no students were in the building.

Witness Links 3 Others To Stolen Property Case

LISBON — Randy Hanlon, 18, of 760 Sophia St., East Liverpool, was the state's key witness Monday in the trial of Linda Evans of old Route 30, East Liverpool RD, charged with receiving and concealing stolen property.

Hanlon testified he and Robert Means of East Liverpool RD broke into the Alice Satow residence in Glenmoor one night last October and took a portable television set, sewing machine, two radios, a revolver and a bank containing about $12 in coins.

Hanlon, 17, at the time, said Means used the telephone in the house to call Linda Evans and his sister, Betty Means Taylor, who was living at the Evans home, to come for them in a car.

The youth testified he and Means carried the stolen items to the auction building in Glenmoor and hid until the girls arrived. He said they told the girls the things were stolen.

The witness also testified that Linda helped carry the things into the house and that her parents, Rodney and Peg Evans, knew the items were stolen.

Hanlon said he gave Means $5 for the TV set, which he turned in to the East Liverpool police department about Nov. 1 after being questioned by Edwin Hedrick, Juvenile Court probatior. officer, and James R. Gause, investigator for the prosecutor's office.

They were the other witnesses for the state Monday along with Mrs. Satow and Constable Robert Morrow of St. Clair Township.

Means, 19, was the first witness called by Defense Counsel G. William Brokaw of East Liverpool late Monday afternoon. The youth denied all Hanlon's statements implicating him, his sister, the defendant and her parents.

State Trying To Show Sirhan Planned Murder

LOS ANGELES (AP) — With witness after witness, the prosecution is attempting to show that Sirhan Bishara Sirhan planned the murder of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy—and even practiced for it on the day before the assassination.

On today's witness schedule were two men who had told a grand jury they saw Sirhan practice rapid firing at the San Gabriel Valley Gun Club in suburban Duarte.

The defense contends the killing of Kennedy, flush from victory in the California Democratic presidential primary, was "unplanned and undeliberate, impulsive and without premeditation or malice." Premeditation is a key element in a finding of first degree murder.

Kennedy was shot in a kitchen area of the Ambassador Hotel on June 5, as he left a victory celebration.

A kitchen helper, Jesus Perez, was asked Monday if he had seen Sirhan in the pantry. He said yes, a half hour before the shooting.

Q. Did you talk to the defendant before the shooting?

A. Yes.

Q. Will you tell the jury what you told him and what he told you?

A. He asked me if Kennedy was coming through that place.

Q. Was that question asked before the senator was shot?

A. Yes.

Q. How long was the question asked before the senator was shot.

A. I'd say about a half hour.

Q. Did you answer Mr. Sirhan?

A. Yes.

Q. What did you say?

A. That I didn't know anything about whether the senator was coming through there or not.

Experienced Diplomats See Another Snag In Peace Talks

PARIS (AP) — Experienced diplomats foresee a new deadlock at the Vietnam peace talks but say it may provide the first sign of progress.

The new complication in the already stalemated talks, is expected to arise between the United States and its Saigon allies over the question of negotiating South Vietnam's political future.

Saigon rejects any such negotiations as interference in South Vietnam's internal affairs. South Vietnamese Ambassador Pham Dang Lam said Monday: "For us, an international conference is not the appropriate framework for discussing internal problems."

Saigon's announced objective at the talks is to get all North Vietnamese forces out of South Vietnam and end the "Communist aggression." U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge supports Lam at the conference table to the extent that he emphasizes military de-escalation and re-establishing the demilitarized zone as a "first practical step." But Lodge has been vague about what kind of political future the United States envisions for South Vietnam. At last Thursday's meeting Lodge said again that Washington would not "impose a political solution on South Vietnam."

We will support any political settlement that is arrived at freely among the South Vietnamese themselves," he said.

North Vietnam and the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front have demanded the unconditional withdrawal of U.S. troops and voluntary dissolution of President Nguyen Van Thieu's Saigon regime.

Allied negotiators expect that at some point, probably in secret talks, Hanoi and the NLF will be willing to bargain for an exchange of concessions. Diplomats say this is when the United States and the South Vietnamese government will clash again, with Washington trying to convince Saigon to talk politics, with its enemies.

A similar deadlock occurred last fall when the Americans were trying to get the Saigon leaders to sit down with the NLF in Paris.

Conflicting Views Given On Ohio Wiretapping Bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Senate Judiciary Committee heard Monday night conflicting viewpoints on a bill to allow limited wire tapping with court approval and sent it to a subcommittee for further study.

Law enforcement officials told the committee that wiretapping is necessary to fight organized crime and civil liberties proponents contended that it would be an invasion of privacy.

"I do urge that you give this bill immediate consideration and pass it," David Dowd Jr., Stark County prosecuting attorney, said.

Dowd said "I wish I had it now" to uncover gambling and narcotic operations in Stark County.

He urged that the bill be amended to allow a wiretap or eavesdrop to be used for a period of 30 days. The bill provides for a 15-day period of surveillance.

Robert Macklin, testifying for the Ohio Crime Commission, said the commission will submit its own wiretap bill to the committee.

He said the commission bill was almost identical with the new federal wiretapping and eavesdropping law and would conform to recent Supreme Court rulings.

It is an essential tool for fighting organized crime," he said, adding that a legalized wiretop would deprive the organization of a means of communication.

He said law officers have a hard time gathering evidence on organized crime because informants are often brutally murdered.

Benson A. Wolman, chairman of the American Civil Liberties Union of Central Ohio, said the bill would sanction law enforcement "fishing expeditions."

"The bill does not involve a one-shot interception of a conversation," Wolman said. "It is not restricted to time, place and specific conversations."

He explained that because the bill includes a 15-day authorization, an eavesdrop on a suspect would include the conversations of many innocent persons and possibly intimate coversations.

David Clayman, representing the Ohio AFL-CIO, said the bill infringed on the right of privacy and was "dirty business to uncover dirty business."

"I'm afraid of a police state and I hope I never see one," Clayman said, adding the bill contains all the symptoms of one.

"It would be denying people with bad reputations the right of privacy," Clayman added.

The Judiciary Committee also heard testimony on a resolution to put the question of abolishing the death penalty on the November ballot.

Oliver Ocasek D-27 Northfield the bill's main sponsor, said "the committee must decide whether this issue is of sufficient importance to be placed on the ballot for the second time this century."

He said the last time capital punishment was voted upon by the people was in 1912, which was before women could vote.

"The second question that this committee must decide," he said "is do you believe in the constitution of Ohio which says that the power basically belongs to the people."

Under questioning, Ocasek said he favored putting the death penalty on the ballot because he did "not expect my colleagues in the House and Senate to vote for outright repeal."

Ocasek said he has received "hundreds of letters of support and a lesser number against the resolution."

"I am aware of the divided opinion, but what better to bring the discussion out in the open," he said.

Ocasek invited committee members to attend a mass meeting next Tuesday night to discuss the bill. It will be sponsored by the Ohio Civil Liberties Union and various chapters of anti-capitoal punishment groups.

The Judiciary Committee sent to the Senate floor with a recommendation for passage a bill to prevent trains from blocking crossings for long periods of time.

The bill, which does not apply to continously moving through trains, would require a train at the end of each five minute period of obstructing traffic to open the crossing for at least three minutes to allow cars and pedestrians to cross.

The committee also voted out a bill to ban medical quackery.

In earlier floor action, the House unanimously approved and sent to the Senate a joint resolution calling for a legislative study of the state's welfare programs.

The resolution was sponsored by House Speaker Charles F. Kurfess R-4 Wood, and Minority Leader John M. McDonald D-19 Newark.

Kurfess said it "grows out of a deep sense of frustration" on the part of welfare recipients, administrators, taxpayers and legislators.

"This frustration in some areas is growing to disgust," he added.

Rep. Phale D. Hale D - 63 Columbus, succeeded in getting an amendment passed to require the committee to come up with long - ranged recommendations.

Under the resolution, the committee would have six members from each House.

The House also passed its first bill in its longest session to date, lasted one hour and 42 minutes. In addition, 10 bills were introduced.

A bill to allow cities to haul away abandoned vehicles within 45 days rather than the usual three months ran into a series of amendments before it finally passed 82-2. It was sponsored by George V. Voinvich R - 53 Cleveland.

Rep. Walter H. Paulo R - 83 Confield introduced three election reform proposals.

They would change registration laws to permit voter registration 30 days before a primary, to permit registration at any county polling place and to authorize the immediate posting of vote tallies at a polling place immediately after the count has been made.

Six bills were introduced in a short Senate session.

California Hippie Foiled In Bid To Hijack Blimp

The would-be pirate: who else, in the hippie-happy land around Hollywood and Disneyland, but a long-haired youth armed with a guitar?

Under his other arm, he carried a mysterious black box.

"I want a ride, man," he told Jim Genet, a company crewman who works on the Goodyear blimp by day and takes turns working a nearby guard shack by night.

"If not, I'll blow the thing up," Genet quoted the youth as saying.

Genet called for help. For the next hour and a half, about 30 armed officers surrounded the big gas bag and waited patiently Monday night, said one—"in case he really did have a bomb."

Finally, Sheriff's Sgt. Arthur Hicks and the bomb squad arrived. Hicks walked boldly across the open, grassy field and opened the tiny door of the gondola hanging under the dirigible's plump belly.

"Are you the pilot?" the hairy occupant asked Hicks. "I want to go to Aspen, Colorado" for a jazz festival.

The youth, without waiting for an answer, pushed a "button" on his black box. Hicks waited for an explosion. Instead he heard a blast of rock music from the lad's tiny black transistor radio. After searching him, Hicks helped him out.

En route to a hospital where he was admitted—still unidentified—for observation, the bearded youth believed to be about 20 explained that he managed to slip by the guard "because I'm invisible."

"He never would have made it to Aspen," said Ralph Reed, another crewman of the 160-foot blimp used by the rubber company for advertising purposes.

"The blimp has a maximum ceiling of 3,500 feet and Aspen is about 13,000 feet high. Besides, its maximum fuel load allows only 20 hours in the air."

Too bad. The hairy young man had brought along his toothbrush.

Legislature Fails To Act On Community Courts Bill

HARRISBURG (AP) — The General Assembly failed to meet the deadline today for enactment of legislation to implement new provisions of the state constitution authorizing establishment of community courts.

Today was to have been the first day for circulating petitions to have the community court question placed on the May 20 primary ballot in one or more of the state's 59 judicial districts.

The legislature, however, has not yet acted on a bill prescribing the language in which the question would appear on the ballot or another measure detailing the jurisdiction, number of judges and other matters relating to community courts.

Nevertheless, the American Civil Liberties Union maintained that the constitutional provisions were "self - executing" and urged community court proponents to go ahead with plans to circulate the necessary petitions.

The state constitution's new judiciary article, approved last April, authorizes the creation of community courts to replace justices of the peace in those judicial districts where a majority of the voters give their approval.

In order for the question to appear on the ballot, however, signatures must be obtained from at least 5 per cent of the highest number of total votes cast for all candidates for a single office in the judicial district last November.

House Democrats Monday postponed action on the Senate-passed "language" bill, pending the Senate's approval of the more important measure relating to the make-up of the proposed courts.

House Majority Leader K. Leroy Irvis, D-Allegheny, said passage of the one bill without the other "would be like putting the cart before the horse."

"We have to pass a bill saying just what a community court consists of before we can ask the voters to rule on the question of whether they want a community court or not," Irvis said.

Flaherty Bolts Party, To Face Barr For Mayor

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Councilman Peter Flaherty has bolted the Democratic Party and says he'll take on Joseph Barr for mayor of Pittsburgh.

Flaherty said Monday he'll try for the party's support, "but I've decided not to sit outside with my hat in hand waiting for a formal endorsement.

"The organization is open to any candidate," said Flaherty. "No one owns the organization anymore."

Commenting on Flaherty's announcement, Barr said in a statement: "To be mayor of Pittsburgh or any large city, one needs a great deal of experience. This, I fear, Mr. Flaherty does not have."

The 43-year-old Flaherty was an outspoken critic of the city's budget. He is a former assistant district attorney.

Barr has not said if he intends to run for mayor. He said a decision will be influenced by his health.

Barr said the 13-man Democratic Policy Committee will meet Wednesday or Thursday to endorse a candidate for mayor.

The legislature, however, has not yet acted on a bill prescribing the language in which the question would appear on the ballot or another measure detailing the jurisdiction, number of judges and other matters relating to community courts.

Nevertheless, the American Civil Liberties Union maintained that the constitutional provisions were "self - executing" and urged community court proponents to go ahead with plans to circulate the necessary petitions.

The state constitution's new judiciary article, approved last April, authorizes the creation of community courts to replace justices of the peace in those judicial districts where a majority of the voters give their approval.

In order for the question to appear on the ballot, however, signatures must be obtained from at least 5 per cent of the highest number of total votes cast for all candidates for a single office in the judicial district last November.

House Democrats Monday postponed action on the Senate-passed "language" bill, pending the Senate's approval of the more important measure relating to the make-up of the proposed courts.

House Majority Leader K. Leroy Irvis, D-Allegheny, said passage of the one bill without the other "would be like putting the cart before the horse."

"We have to pass a bill saying just what a community court consists of before we can ask the voters to rule on the question of whether they want a community court or not," Irvis said.

Flaherty Bolts Party, To Face Barr For Mayor

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Councilman Peter Flaherty has bolted the Democratic Party and says he'll take on Joseph Barr for mayor of Pittsburgh.

Flaherty said Monday he'll try for the party's support, "but I've decided not to sit outside with my hat in hand waiting for a formal endorsement.

"The organization is open to any candidate," said Flaherty. "No one owns the organization anymore."

Commenting on Flaherty's announcement, Barr said in a statement: "To be mayor of Pittsburgh or any large city, one needs a great deal of experience. This, I fear, Mr. Flaherty does not have."

The 43-year-old Flaherty was an outspoken critic of the city's budget. He is a former assistant district attorney.

Barr has not said if he intends to run for mayor. He said a decision will be influenced by his health.

Barr said the 13-man Democratic Policy Committee will meet Wednesday or Thursday to endorse a candidate for mayor.

timated the city spends $500 for labor and materials each time it sends street department crews to the site to fill chuckholes and do other temporary repairs.

"That street is a 'showplace' for everyone who attends a basketball game at our school," Wilson said. "I got a lot of complaints from the Salem people who attended the game there."

Councilman Edward Massey agreed that property owners should sign a petition if they wish the street improved. He pointed out that in such projects the city's cost usually is limited to a 2 per cent share of the overall cost, plus the cost of paving any intersections.

"Of course, I believe that street should have been fixed years ago," Massey said. "But when it is improved, property values will go up more than twice the cost of the improvement to the average home owner. I think the people will sign for the improvement. But we will have to find out what type of pavement is needed."

In a related question, Councilman Donal I. Burcham moved for legislation calling for issuance of bonds for improvement of Avondale St. He asked that the enabling legislation be presented at the next meeting.

Wilson asked Solicitor J. Michael Kapp how much borrowing power the city has left for general obligation bonds. Kapp replied the figure is about $400,000, but added that a detailed report now is being prepared by Auditor L. J. Zollinger's office.

Councilman James Lowe said he believes Council should determine what type of surface would be applied and obtain cost figures before requesting legislation.

Burcham then amended his motion to a request for the engineer's office to make recommendations for the improvement. The amended motion was approved unanimously.

Spokesmen for American Legion Post 374 in East End appeared in a caucus session to ask city aid in resurfacing a section of Cuba Alley, which lies behind the post home.

The Legionnaires said the post expects to surface both its parking lot and the adjoining section of alley and feels the city might aid in the alley improvement. The request was referred to the street committee.

timated the city spends $500 for labor and materials each time it sends street department crews to the site to fill chuckholes and do other temporary repairs.

"That street is a 'showplace' for everyone who attends a basketball game at our school," Wilson said. "I got a lot of complaints from the Salem people who attended the game there."

Councilman Edward Massey agreed that property owners should sign a petition if they wish the street improved. He pointed out that in such projects the city's cost usually is limited to a 2 per cent share of the overall cost, plus the cost of paving any intersections.

"Of course, I believe that street should have been fixed years ago," Massey said. "But when it is improved, property values will go up more than twice the cost of the improvement to the average home owner. I think the people will sign for the improvement. But we will have to find out what type of pavement is needed."

In a related question, Councilman Donal I. Burcham moved for legislation calling for issuance of bonds for improvement of Avondale St. He asked that the enabling legislation be presented at the next meeting.

Wilson asked Solicitor J. Michael Kapp how much borrowing power the city has left for general obligation bonds. Kapp replied the figure is about $400,000, but added that a detailed report now is being prepared by Auditor L. J. Zollinger's office.

Councilman James Lowe said he believes Council should determine what type of surface would be applied and obtain cost figures before requesting legislation.

Burcham then amended his motion to a request for the engineer's office to make recommendations for the improvement. The amended motion was approved unanimously.

Spokesmen for American Legion Post 374 in East End appeared in a caucus session to ask city aid in resurfacing a section of Cuba Alley, which lies behind the post home.

The Legionnaires said the post expects to surface both its parking lot and the adjoining section of alley and feels the city might aid in the alley improvement. The request was referred to the street committee.

Driver Charged After Mishap In Hancock County

A 21-year-old East Liverpool driver faces a hearing Friday after an accident in Hancock County late Sunday night.

Michael R. Newlen of 1044 Church St. will appear before Squire John D. Herron at New Cumberland, charged by Hancock sheriff's deputies with failure to have his vehicle under control.

The accident, about two miles south of New Cumberland on Route 2, caused some $200 damage to the home of Cecil Owens. Newlen told officers he was backing out of the parking lot of the Surfside Club when his gas pedal became stuck and the car went across the road, first striking a mail box and then the Owens home. Some $300 in damages resulted to Newlen's car.

The mishap occurred at 11:22 p.m.

Men generally have more red cells than women and a newborn infant has about a million more than an adult.

She Glitters When She Walks

Leather miniskirt, boots encasing those long, handsome legs, a cloche hat pulled over the cropped red hair, Judy Carne in the sunshine outshone beautiful downtown Burbank. She glittered when she walked.

Cecil Smith

"Laugh-In's" sock-it-to-me girl couldn't be happier. She's heading home to England this week to do what always has been her thing.

She will star in a weekly variety series to be made in England but to be shown next summer on NBC as the "Music Hall" summer show.

"COMEDY is really out of my bag," said Judy. "I mean the situation comedy thing. 'Laugh-In' is more like what I do. Like the intimate revue. I came out of the revue, the music hall, musical comedy. The singing-dancing bit. I've never done it here. Funny I have to go home to do what always has been my thing."

Judy has gone home every spring "to do the family bit" since she was brought here seven years ago for an ill-fated series, "Fair Exchange."

She's moved from series to series, playing in "Love on a Rooftop" and "The Baileys of Balboa" before the first bucket of water was dumped on her and made her a household word in "Laugh-In." None of the things she's done before much impressed the English.

But this homecoming is going to be something else.

"LAUGH-IN" is the sensation of British television. It is so wildly popular on BBC-2, Britain's "colour" network, that there are plans to also play it on BBC-1, the black-and-white network, which will make it the first weekly show in the history of television to ride two networks simultaneously.

Judy, whose language is as mod as her clothes, is a child of show business — "I've done everything but the circus."

"My folks programmed it. When I was a child, I was very Shirley Temply. They started me with dancing when I was 3. Then they sent me to this theatrical boarding school at 8.

"I DON'T MEAN that they pressured. Not like 'Gypsy' time. But this school, the Bush-Davis School, is strictly for show biz. It's like 90 per cent theater and 10 per cent school — the Russian ballet thing there. The beach is free. The Girls come out of it straight into the Royal Ballet.

"I mean the training is so famous that the London theater managers come up to see you. I could have gone the ballet route, I suppose, but I went into a revue at 16.

"Those first years in London, well, it was a huge sort of number . . ."

"A what?" I asked.

"Like something bad," said Judy, patiently interpreting. "I mean, schools like that, you don't have them in this country, it's like you've been exactly nowhere.

"You can sing, act, dance, do 20 dialects, but you can't spell. People say words you don't know. You lack all but the bare necessities of education. You have nothing to deal with life."

"JUDY'S LIFE seems divided into sevens. Seven years of school, seven years of the London shows, including replacing a girl named Julie Andrews in the London hit, "The Boy Friend" British TV, a British movie, "A Pair of Briefs." Then the seven Hollywood years. Not all satin and silk.

"There were bleak times," she said. "I've been broke in both countries and, believe me, it's better to be broke here than there. The beach is free. The sun shines. There, if you're broke, there's nothing."

She's anchored here. She'll be back after the summer shows and some other British shows, including a guest-star spot on the new Tom Jones variety hour on ABC, ready to begin the new "Laugh-In" series next August.

She thinks maybe a new seven-year era is beginning. She's just out her first record, will do her first album this summer.

Work Stoppage Ends, New Span Behind Schedule

GALLIPOLIS, Ohio (AP) — The latest work stoppage on the new Ohio River bridge being built to replace the Silver Bridge has ended, but builders say construction now is two months behind schedule.

Members of Laborers Local 543 of Huntington, W. Va., who walked off the job last week in a jurisdictional dispute, returned Monday, pending further negotiations.

The laborers had contended they should have the job of drilling the holes for the bridge piling instead of the Pile Drivers Union. Laborer picket lines had kept other union workers off the job.

Edward Goza of the Al Johnson Construction Co. said work would resume today on a stepped-up 20-hour-a-day seven-day-a-week schedule in an effort to have the bridge finished by its September completion date.

The bridge will cross the Ohio River between Henderson, W. Va., and Kanauga, Ohio.

Kapp Cites Zoning Law

Public Hearing Required On Variances, Exceptions

Public hearings will be required on applications to change the purpose for which property can be used by seeking a variance or a so-called special exception, just as is the case at present when a new zoning classification is sought.

Solicitor J. Michael Kapp gave that assurance to the City Planning Commission Monday as he explained a revised interpretation of the zoning ordinance that he says will speed action on applications for changes in use of existing properties.

KAPP pointed out that the City Code requires the Zoning days' advance notice of any hearing by publishing a legal advertisement in the newspaper. In addition, affected property owners within 200 feet will receive individual notices through the mail, as is the case now in an application for a change in zoning classification, Kapp added.

The Zoning Board of Appeals, which acts on applications for variances and special exceptions, will hear arguments pro and con from the public before making a finding, the solicitor emphasized.

An application for a change in zoning classification, which Kapp believes will become comparatively rare under the new procedure, is filed with the planning commission. The commission holds a public hearing, makes a determination and then passes on notice of its finding to Council. Council then is required to hold another hearing and makes its own decision. An ordinance affirming or rejecting the request then is acted upon by Council.

Kapp pointed out that the provisions for variances and special exceptions were included in the zoning law to take care of many of the cases which—up until this time — have been processed as applications for changes in zoning classification. He said the new procedure is simpler and less time - consuming. An application for change in zoning requires a minimum of 90 days for processing, he pointed out.

KAPP ALSO pointed out that a variance or special exception do not result in a permanent change in the authorized property use, which is the case in a zoning change.

If a property owner obtains a change in zoning classification, that land may be used in the future for conforming uses, no matter how many times it changes hands, he said. But a variance or a special exception applies only to the person who owns the property at the time it is granted, subject to conditions laid down by the Zoning Board of Appeals, he said.

If the property changes hand, the variance or special exception would be at an end and the property would have to be used for the purposes set forth in the zoning regulations for that classification, he pointed out.

An application for a variance or a special exception must meet the conditions spelled out in the code, Kapp said. For instance, the applicant must state that the situation, unless altered, would work an "undue hardship" on him and that the change would not alter the essential character of the neighborhood.

Some applications for zoning changes which are now in process may be withdrawn and filed as applications for special exceptions or variances as the result of the new interpretation of the law, Kapp said. An application to the Zoning Board of Appeals requires a $20 fee, to cover the cost of necessary legal advertising. A $50 fee is required for an application for a zoning change.

The meeting was attended by George Steele, chairman, James Grafton, Frank Mangano, Safety - Service Director Robert E. Vodrey, Mayor George E. Willshaw, J. Clifford Conley and John Parsons, all members of the commission, Planning Coordinator Don Eckert and Marvin Wooley, zoning and building inspector. The next regular meeting will be Monday, March 10.

New Session Slated To Air Police Funds

Columbiana and Stark County officials seeking to obtain federal funds for law enforcement work and police training under the "safe streets" act of 1968 will meet again at noon Friday, Feb. 28, at Alliance City Hall.

Plans for applying for the funds were advanced in a meeting that attracted 50 Friday at Canton. The two county governments and their various township and city and village governments were represented.

Columbiana County was represented by Planning Coordinator Don Eckert and Det. Capt. Kenneth Mooney, both of East Liverpool, Mayor Dale Kampfer of Columbiana, Mayor Dean Cranmer of Salem, County Commissioner Charles Gause, and James Morrissey of the County Regional Planning Commission.

The officials were advised that only $16,000 in planning funds is available for immediate distribution. Each county will set up its so-called "council of government" to make application for the funds through the Ohio Urban Affairs Department, which administers the money on the state level.

The two counties comprise District 8, one of a series of district organizations in the state for administration of the funds.

The Urban Affairs Department has agreed to supply forms for seeking the aid and guidance in completing the applications. Each county will proceed with formation of its own "council of government" and draft its own bylaws for administration.

Includes Anti-Gambling Phase

W.Va. Senate Action Due On Recodification Plans

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — The State Senate is expected to consider House amendments today to a municipal recodification bill that includes a provision for city councils to pass anti-gambling ordinances.

Action was held over Monday following a motion by Majority Leader Clarence E. Martin Jr., D-Berkeley, that the House be asked to recede all its amendments to the bill.

The Senate is also expected to vote today on recodification of law governing West Virginia's Racing Commission and on a bill that would permit landowners, their tenants or agents to arrest hunters or fishermen who tresspass on their land.

Meanwhile, the House has up for voting today a bill that would place state - supported colleges and universities under the supervision of a 10-member board of regents.

THE bill cleared the amendment stage in surprisingly short order Monday.

Other action taken by the House included approval of two proposed amendments to the West Virginia Constitution, while the Senate passed a bill raising state police base salaries 20 per cent.

One proposed amendment is a $90-million bond issue authorization to finance public school construction, approved by a vote of 81-17.

The other, approved 98-0, would permit amendment ratification votes in special elections as well as the general November elections to which they are now restricted.

SEN. Martin made a motion to ask the House to withdraw all its amendments because of mechanical difficulties in amendments to zoning provisions in the bill.

Objection to the motion was voiced Monday by Sen. William T. Brotherton, D-Kanawha, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee that has worked quite extensively on the bill.

Brotherton said although the zoning sections have been amended, Martin's motion is a "smokescreen" to hide objections to a gambling amendment.

The amendment, sponsored by Del. Frederick P. Stamp Jr., R-Ohio, specifically mentions slot machines and multiple coin slot machines in provisions giving city councils power to pass anti-gambling ordinances.

Brotherton said such provisions would be a "forward step" for the state.

THE single board of regents bill up before the House today would take supervision of West Virginia and Marshall universities, two - year Potomac State College and the eight state colleges away from the State Board of Education to a single board of regents.

Defeated, without roll call, was an amendment to retain the WVU Board of Governors in its present role, with the single board of regents to govern the other state-supported schools.

Del. Robert D. Harman, R-Mineral, sponsored the amendment, "out of my loyalty to West Virginia University and Potomac State College." He is a graduate of both.

The bill approved by the Senate to increase salaries and longevity pay increments for state police provides a step-up of $300 in annual pay for every five years of service, with a maximum of four such raises.

A new trooper would get $496 a month during basic training; $556 a month during the rest of his first year and $6,816 a year starting with the second year of service.

The bill also provides these base salaries:

Corporal, $7,464; sergeant, $7,812; first sergeant and master sergeant; $8,064; lieutenant, $8,640; captain, $9,144; major, $10,224 and inspector, $11,304.

Novel Sues Ohio Bell In Alleged Phone Tapping

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gordon Novel, whom New Orleans Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison said was a "most important witness" in his Kennedy assassination probe, has sued Ohio Bell Telephone Co. for allegedly tapping his telephone.

Novel, 30, charges in the suit that Ohio Bell caused him "extreme mental anguish and interfered with his right to be secure in his private affairs' by tapping his phone.

He is seeking $1 million compensatory damages and $999,999 punitive damages. The suit says the tapping device was installed around Nov. 30, 1968.

His suit, filed in Common Pleas Court here, gives Ohio Bell until March 24 to answer. Otherwise, a trial date will be set. A Bell spokesman said he had not seen the petition and could not comment until there is opportunity to study it.

Novel formerly operated a night club in New Orleans' French Quarter. He moved to Columbus and Garrison has sought unsuccessfully for two years to have him extradited to New Orleans to testify in the investigation of President Kennedy's death.

Novel has called Garrison's probe a "complete fabrication."

Kapp Cites Zoning Law

Public Hearing Required On Variances, Exceptions

Public hearings will be required on applications to change the purpose for which property can be used by seeking a variance or a so-called special exception, just as is the case at present when a new zoning classification is sought.

Solicitor J. Michael Kapp gave that assurance to the City Planning Commission Monday as he explained a revised interpretation of the zoning ordinance that he says will speed action on applications for changes in use of existing properties.

KAPP pointed out that the City Code requires the Zoning days' advance notice of any hearing by publishing a legal advertisement in the newspaper. In addition, affected property owners within 200 feet will receive individual notices through the mail, as is the case now in an application for a change in zoning classification, Kapp added.

The Zoning Board of Appeals, which acts on applications for variances and special exceptions, will hear arguments pro and con from the public before making a finding, the solicitor emphasized.

An application for a change in zoning classification, which Kapp believes will become comparatively rare under the new procedure, is filed with the planning commission. The commission holds a public hearing, makes a determination and then passes on notice of its finding to Council. Council then is required to hold another hearing and makes its own decision. An ordinance affirming or rejecting the request then is acted upon by Council.

Kapp pointed out that the provisions for variances and special exceptions were included in the zoning law to take care of many of the cases which—up until this time — have been processed as applications for changes in zoning classification. He said the new procedure is simpler and less time - consuming. An application for change in zoning requires a minimum of 90 days for processing, he pointed out.

KAPP ALSO pointed out that a variance or special exception do not result in a permanent change in the authorized property use, which is the case in a zoning change.

If a property owner obtains a change in zoning classification, that land may be used in the future for conforming uses, no matter how many times it changes hands, he said. But a variance or a special exception applies only to the person who owns the property at the time it is granted, subject to conditions laid down by the Zoning Board of Appeals, he said.

If the property changes hand, the variance or special exception would be at an end and the property would have to be used for the purposes set forth in the zoning regulations for that classification, he pointed out.

An application for a variance or a special exception must meet the conditions spelled out in the code, Kapp said. For instance, the applicant must state that the situation, unless altered, would work an "undue hardship" on him and that the change would not alter the essential character of the neighborhood.

Some applications for zoning changes which are now in process may be withdrawn and filed as applications for special exceptions or variances as the result of the new interpretation of the law, Kapp said. An application to the Zoning Board of Appeals requires a $20 fee, to cover the cost of necessary legal advertising. A $50 fee is required for an application for a zoning change.

The meeting was attended by George Steele, chairman, James Grafton, Frank Mangano, Safety - Service Director Robert E. Vodrey, Mayor George E. Willshaw, J. Clifford Conley and John Parsons, all members of the commission, Planning Coordinator Don Eckert and Marvin Wooley, zoning and building inspector. The next regular meeting will be Monday, March 10.

W.Va. Senate Action Due On Recodification Plans

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — The State Senate is expected to consider House amendments today to a municipal recodification bill that includes a provision for city councils to pass anti-gambling ordinances.

Action was held over Monday following a motion by Majority Leader Clarence E. Martin Jr., D-Berkeley, that the House be asked to recede all its amendments to the bill.

The Senate is also expected to vote today on recodification of law governing West Virginia's Racing Commission and on a bill that would permit landowners, their tenants or agents to arrest hunters or fishermen who tresspass on their land.

Meanwhile, the House has up for voting today a bill that would place state - supported colleges and universities under the supervision of a 10-member board of regents.

THE bill cleared the amendment stage in surprisingly short order Monday.

Other action taken by the House included approval of two proposed amendments to the West Virginia Constitution, while the Senate passed a bill raising state police base salaries 20 per cent.

One proposed amendment is a $90-million bond issue authorization to finance public school construction, approved by a vote of 81-17.

The other, approved 98-0, would permit amendment ratification votes in special elections as well as the general November elections to which they are now restricted.

The municipal recodification bill, approved earlier by the Senate, changes laws under which West Virginia cities operate.

SEN. Martin made a motion to ask the House to withdraw all its amendments because of mechanical difficulties in amendments to zoning provisions in the bill.

Objection to the motion was voiced Monday by Sen. William T. Brotherton, D-Kanawha, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee that has worked quite extensively on the bill.

Brotherton said although the zoning sections have been amended, Martin's motion is a "smokescreen" to hide objections to a gambling amendment.

The amendment, sponsored by Del. Frederick P. Stamp Jr., R-Ohio, specifically mentions slot machines and multiple coin slot machines in provisions giving city councils power to pass anti-gambling ordinances.

Brotherton said such provisions would be a "forward step" for the state.

THE single board of regents bill up before the House today would take supervision of West Virginia and Marshall universities, two - year Potomac State College and the eight state colleges away from the State Board of Education to a single board of regents.

Defeated, without roll call, was an amendment to retain the WVU Board of Governors in its present role, with the single board of regents to govern the other state-supported schools.

Del. Robert D. Harman, R-Mineral, sponsored the amendment, "out of my loyalty to West Virginia University and Potomac State College." He is a graduate of both.

The bill approved by the Senate to increase salaries and longevity pay increments for state police provides a step-up of $300 in annual pay for every five years of service, with a maximum of four such raises.

A new trooper would get $496 a month during basic training; $556 a month during the rest of his first year and $6,816 a year starting with the second year of service.

The bill also provides these base salaries:

Corporal, $7,464; sergeant, $7,812; first sergeant and master sergeant; $8,064; lieutenant, $8,640; captain, $9,144; major, $10,224 and inspector, $11,304.

Novel Sues Ohio Bell In Alleged Phone Tapping

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gordon Novel, whom New Orleans Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison said was a "most important witness" in his Kennedy assassination probe, has sued Ohio Bell Telephone Co. for allegedly tapping his telephone.

Novel, 30, charges in the suit that Ohio Bell caused him "extreme mental anguish and interfered with his right to be secure in his private affairs' by tapping his phone.

He is seeking $1 million compensatory damages and $999,999 punitive damages. The suit says the tapping device was installed around Nov. 30, 1968.

His suit, filed in Common Pleas Court here, gives Ohio Bell until March 24 to answer. Otherwise, a trial date will be set. A Bell spokesman said he had not seen the petition and could not comment until there is opportunity to study it.

Novel formerly operated a night club in New Orleans' French Quarter. He moved to Columbus and Garrison has sought unsuccessfully for two years to have him extradited to New Orleans to testify in the investigation of President Kennedy's death.

Novel has called Garrison's probe a "complete fabrication."

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Old Sheets Made New

DEAR HELOISE: This is what I do with good sheets when I find that the top hem is wearing where it is folded.

Heloise

I cut off the top hem (the sheets are long enough so that two inches won't matter), get some wide, bias tape in any desired color and sew it on.

A band of tape can be added to a pair of pillow cases to match the sheet.

HELEN HARTMAN.

DEAR HELOISE: My husband is a restaurant manager and here's a hint his employer showed him. . .

If you are running late fixing supper and are cooking a roast at a higher temperature than normal, wrap the meat in lettuce leaves. They keep the moisture and heat in, and the meat doesn't dry out.

CAROLYN GRINNELL.

I didn't believe my eyes when I read this. I've used outside cabbage leaves before, but the lettuce is far better.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: A friend of mine was in the hospital so I decided to make up my own floral gift. I purchased a nice vase, a piece of foam, pretty plastic flowers, and some glue.

When completed, the arrangement looked lovely but lacked that something called "FRAGRANCE"!

So I sprayed the arrangement with my scented hair spray and it turned out with a lovely sheen, as well as a pleasant scent.

SYLVAIA VELAZQUEZ.

DEAR HELOISE: It took me years to write to you, but here it is.

When I was first married, my husband gave me a beautiful automatic washer. At the time, he was working on a ranch and they were experimenting with growling spinach.

Well, it turned out to be a success, and one evening he brought home a one hundred-pound sack of it. I wasn't about to wash each piece by hand. So I put it in my brand new washer. You can just about imagine what happened.

LOIS TAYLOR.

DEAR HELOISE: Do you have trouble getting those small Spanish olives out of the jar when you just need a few?

MRS. S. D.

DEAR HELOISE: I found that either a potato or an onion mesh bag can be used to hold wet tub toys as they dry. Just hang it on a towel bar over the tub, or on the handle of the water faucet.

It can even be stored there, thus saving valuable space in a small bathroom.

KATHRYN CHARLES.

DEAR HELOISE: My family likes pancakes, bacon and eggs for supper occasionally.

Instead of making the pancakes while the family is eating, I put a foil-lined cookie sheet in the oven on low temperature. Then fry the bacon and pile it on one end of the cookie sheet, cook all the pancakes and put them on the rest of the cookie sheet in serving-size piles.

I fry the eggs last just before serving. This way I can sit down and enjoy the meal, too. Second helpings are in the oven and the bacon always stays crisp.

MRS. D. L. GREEN.

That's what I call an egg-ellentidea!

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: This may not be much of a hint, but I just thought I'd pass it on anyway.

You know those bottles that have a finger spray? Well, they are just great for rinsing the dust off of your potted house plants.

Just fill them with tepid water, move plants to the kitchen sink and squirt away. You get a thin, gentle stream of water that doesn't harm the plants.

To Air Military Aspects Of Pact

Senate Unit May Further Delay Vote On A-Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Armed Services Committee, in a move that could further delay Senate approval of the nuclear nonproliferation treaty, has announced plans for hearings on military aspects of the pact.

Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., indicated Monday the hearings would start after the Senate Foreign Relations Committee winds up its own inquiry starting today with Secretary of State William P. Rogers as the leadoff witness.

But while that committee has long been in favor of the treaty, the move by Armed Services could provide a forum or rallying point for critics unhappy with inspection procedures and other provisions.

Rogers, in his first appearance as secretary before a congressional committee, had the assignment of following up on President Nixon's request of Feb. 5 that the Senate "act promptly to consider the treaty and give its advice and consent to ratification."

Secretary of Defense Melvin M. Laird will appear Thursday in support of the presidential request.

The Foreign Relations Committee approved the treaty after an initial round of testimony last September but it was not brought to a vote before Congress adjourned.

The treaty would bind nuclear powers to keep atomic weapons out of the hands of countries that do not now have them, but would permit sharing peaceful uses of nuclear power.

It would take effect with ratification by this country, Great Britain, Russia and any 40 other countries. It has been ratified to date only by Great Britain and six nonnuclear nations.

The other two nuclear powers, France and Red China, have said they will not sign.

The treaty will need a two-thirds vote of approval—or 67 senators in favor if all 100 are present—when it is called up on the floor.

Its backers see an immediate advantage in holding down the number of countries that have nuclear weapons and a potential long-range advantage of an end to the nuclear arms race.

Critics protest that inspection procedures are inadequate, that this country should not foreclose the possibility it might some day want to provide nuclear arms to an ally and that a provision allowing withdrawal on 90 days notice renders the pledges involved almost worthless.

Those are among the points expected to be covered by the Armed Services Committee.

Stennis said the hearings would be brief.

Heated Controversy: Gandhi's Death Place

NEW DELHI (AP) — The Parliament is caught up in a heated controversy; where did independence leader Mohandas Gandhi breathe his last?

The government says he died in the prayer ground outside Birla House where he was felled by an assassin's three bullets in 1948.

But some others assert he was breathing when he was taken inside the house and he died inside.

The issue has become crucial because of the demand for converting the house, which belongs to industrialist G.D. Birla, into a memorial. The government says it will acquire the garden and convert it into a fitting memorial. But the critics demand the entire house.

East End Mishap Damages 3 Cars

Three cars were damaged in a "chain reaction" type crash Monday at 3:25 p.m. on Pennsylvania Ave. 200 feet east of Boyce St., police reported.

The crash involved a 1965 sedan driven by Hanna M. Edgell, 31, of 1552 Pennsylvania Ave., a 1968 sedan operated by Thomas Fulkerson Jr., 48, of Parma Heights and a 1969 sedan driven by William C. Williams, 17, of 745 Garner Ave.

The Edgell and Fulkerson cars were halted when Williams' auto hit the Edgell car from the rear and shoved it into the Fulkerson auto, police said. The boy was cited to charge of failure to stop in the assured clear distance.

Ohio Prison Population On Decline

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's prison population is declining.

The state's seven prisons held 10,120 inmates at the end of last month, compared to the record high of 12,024 on April 12, 1965.

State corrections Chief Maury C. Koblentz says several factors —including the Vietnam war and high employment—have resulted in fewer prisoners, despite a higher crime rate.

Courts are using probation more because more jobs are available now, Koblentz said. The court would rather give a man an opportunity, for his sake and his family's, rather than send him to prison."

Koblentz said this has become a nationwide trend and is being watched closely. He stressed that probation is not permissable in Ohio for the most serious crimes, such as murder, rape, kidnaping or armed robbery.

Another contributing factor in lower prison populations is the war, Koblentz said. "there's a large number of people, especially the young, who are in the service and out of circulation."

But Koblentz noted that an end to the war or the availability of fewer jobs in the nation could put prison populations on the rise again.

E. Liverpool Stays 9th In Final AP Scholastic Cage Poll

Sports Whirled

By TURK PIERCE

Review Sports Editor

Speculation is running high in Midland as to whom the Leopards will draw for a foe in the WPIAL basketball Tournament.

The drawing will be Saturday night at the Webster Hall Hotel in Pittsburgh. Contrary to the hassles in Ohio, the competing schools have no choice or voice in the pairings. The WPIAL committee makes up the draw and usually does a fine job, giving the best teams the byes and splitting the better teams into different brackets.

Midland could win one or two games in the tourney, but the odds against the Leopards winning the WPIAL crown are high. Not only is Farrell a clear cut choice, but teams like Penn Hills, Highlands, Munhall and Stowe-Rox look to be better than Midland. But the Leopards should handle the entries from Sections 2, 4, 7 and 9, which will include perennially powerful Mt. Lebanon and Uniontown or defending state champ Laurel Highlands. The race in sections 2 and 4 are still wide open, and only Midland, Farrell and Mt. Lebanon have clinched titles or ties so far. Several sections could end in playoffs, complicating the tournament picture.

The young Leopards have been improving as the season has progressed, and have won 12 straight. They may surprise a few people at the Pitt Field House or Civic Arena.

SHEPHERD STATE'S basketball team, coached by Bob Starkey, fell at Towson (Md.) State 108-88 Saturday. Shepherd trailed only 87-84 with five minutes to go, but then got in foul trouble, and ended the game with only three players left on the floor, as six fouled out. "They were calling fouls for heavy breathing," said Starkey, who coached at Oak Glen last year. Shepherd was hit with 38 fouls.

MIDLAND'S Norm Vanlier continued his brilliant play for St. Francis by scoring 39 points as the Frankies routed Geneva 132-98 Saturday night. Coach John Clark reports that six pro teams are interested in Vanlier.

Columbus East Top Team Again

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — East Liverpool remained ninth in the final Associated Press high school basketball poll released today.

The Potters' position was unchanged from last week. Last year East Liverpool ranked eighth in the final poll. Columbus East repeated as the number one team in the poll for the third year in a row.

Coach Bob Hart's magnificent Tigers, unbeaten in 17 games this year, now start the long tournament grind in a bid to prove they belong on top.

The sports writers and sportscasters who vote in the poll gave East 200 points in the final weekly ratings. Canton McKinley, 17-1, which barely edged Lima Bath, 18 - 0, for second place, finished 68 points back of the frontrunners.

East topped the poll in 1967 but lost in the regional finale to Columbus Linden McKinley 44-35, its only blot in the last three seasons. McKinley went on to the Class AA title.

The Tigers stormed back with a perfect 24-0 showing a year ago on their way to a third state crown. Hart's club needs four victories in district play, two in regional and two in the state tournament to seal its second successive championship.

In Class A, Strasburg, which won the small school title in 1967, topped the rankings with 139 points, 20 more than collected by Zane Trace of Ross County. Strasburg finished its regular season 18-0 while Trace was 20-0.

In Double A, McKinley edged Bath by one point for second place while Toledo Libbey, 16-1, and Marlington, 18-0, deadlocked for fourth place.

Zanesville, 16-1, was sixth followed by Sandusky, 16-2; Hamilton Garfield, 15-2; East Liverpool, 16-1 and Columbus South, 14-2.

Bloomville, 19 - 1, was third followed by Collins Western Reserve, 18-0; Fort Recovery, 19-1; West Muskingum, 17-1; Bridgeport, 16-1; St. Henry, 19-1; Granville, 4-15 (with 14 of the losses by forfeit) and Garaway, 15-2.

Most Ohio Schools are in sectional and district action now to be followed by regionals March 12-15 and the state classic at St. John Arena March 21-22.

MIGHTY MARAVICH. Pete Maravich (3), the nation's leading scorer, puts in another two-pointer for LSU against Vanderbilt at Baton Rouge last night, despite the efforts of Les Yates (22) of the Commodores. Florida Upsets Tennessee

By SHEILA MORAN

Associated Press Sports Writer

Tennessee purposely took two technical fouls in a gamble that backfired and Louisiana State fell after a technical foul shot down Pistol Pete Maravich.

Florida edged Tennessee 65-63 and Vanderbilt nipped LSU 85-83 in the two explosive Southeastern Conference basketball games Monday night.

Meanwhile, sixth-ranked Kentucky widened its SEC lead to two games over 17th-ranked Tennessee, snuffing out Georgia 85-77 in what Adolph Rupp officially claimed as his 800th coaching victory.

In the Pacific —8, top-ranked UCLA's Lew Alcindor scored 22 points to pace the Bruins to a 53-44 victory over upset-minded Washington.

Maravich, the nation's leading scorer, was ejected on a technical foul with about two minutes remaining for squaring off against an official. No blows were struck.

In an effort to get the ball, Tennessee incurred technicals in the closing seconds for calling time out twice in excess of the six allowed. With Florida ahead 62-59 and Tennessee's Bill Justus at the free throw line, Coach Ray Mears called successive times out, the Vols' sixth and seventh.

Justus made his free throw and Andy Owens converted the technical foul shot for Florida, making it 63-60. Florida controlled the jump and Mike Leatherwood dropped in two free throws to give the Gators a 65-60 edge.

Owens then fouled Tennessee's Jim England and Mears called another time out. England made his free throw and Owens missed the technical free throw, leaving the Vols trailing 65-61.

Mears said he discussed the possibility of trading technicals with assistant coach Stu Aberdeen early in the game. Aberdeen suggested that the Vols try the strategy in the final minute.

Florida Coach Tommy Bartlett indicated he will ask for a rules change.

There was no official explanation available regarding Maravich's ouster. Maravich, who was in possession of the ball, appeared to be hit by a Vanderbilt player and the ball went out of bounds. No foul was called and the official awarded the ball to Vandy.

But the floppy-haired LSU junior, stayed in the game long enough to be top scorer with 35 points, bringing his career total to 2,059 and shattering the SEC career scoring record of 2,030 set by Mississippi State's Bailey Howell in 1957-58.

Kentucky boosted its conference record to 12-1 by snuffing out a Georgia rally. Tennessee, which made the top 20 rankings for the first time this week, dropped to 10-3 in the conference after its loss to Florida.

UCLA, starting slow as they have many times this season, failed to take the lead for more than 30 minutes before the 7-foot-1 Alcindor scored six points to put the Bruins ahead to stay for their 36th straight victory. Washington, playing aggressive defense and deliberate offense, built a 22-21 lead at the half.

Niagara's Calvin Murphy, the nation's number two scorer, was held to 23 points, 10 below his average, by Long Island University, but Niagara went on to win 83-75.

Miss Rubin To Ride At Charles Town

Barbara Jo Rubin, who infuriated Florida jockeys when she tried to ride at Miami's Tropical Park, was scheduled to apply for a license this morning at the Charles Town Race Track.

Rodney Peters, representative of the Jockeys Guild, said the local male riders will not protest the competition from a female. He said Diane Crump's recent entry at Tropical broke the back of opposition.

When Barbara tried Tropical last month the male jockeys refused to ride against her and subsequently were fined $100 each by the Florida Racing Commission.

East End Leads 5-6 Grade Loop

East End took a two - game lead in the fifth and sixth grade division of the Little Potters Basketball League last night with a 12-10 win over Northside.

Craig and Foster led the winners with 4 points each. East End remains unbeaten. Kinsey had 5 for the losers.

Downtown whipped St. Al's 17-5 in the other game as Betteridge scored 8 points.

Area Cage Schedule Light, Midland, Oak Glen Away

With the regular season over for all area Ohio high school basketball teams except East Liverpool, the schedule in the area is light tonight, with only three games.

Oak Glen travels to Weirton in a clash of Hancock County rivals. The Red Riders, 10-7, whipped the Golden Bears 58-44 at Oak Glen earlier. Oak Glen is 5-12, with Jim Carnes scoring 17.3 a game.

Midland, which has clinched the Section 6 title, travels to Seneca Valley. The Leopards, 17-3 overall, recorded a 63-41 verdict over the Raiders earlier. Seneca is 8-11. George Green is hitting 15.1 for Ed Olkowski's Leopards, with Greg Vanlier at 14.1 and Howard Leak at 12.3.

South Side visits Western Beaver in their usual grudge match. The Golden Beavers, 6-12, took a 77-59 win at South Side, 3-15, earlier. John Petchel at 13.5 and Chuck Kleker at 12.8 pace Don Lenz' team, while Wayne Searight at 10.5 leads the Rams of John Nace.

Tournament play starts in the area tomorrow with Stanton meeting Shadyside at Steubenville in Class A play. The Red Raiders are 5-13, Shadyside 5-11. Dave Olesky at 15.5 and Tim Logan at 12.9 pace Dave Murray's team.

Carter Has Scoring Title Wrapped Up

There was little change in the statistics among area basketball teams this week.

Rob Carter of Southern virtually clinched the scoring title, though he was idle. His main challengers fell back, and it would take 66 points by Dave Mason of Beaver Local or 70 by Jerry Christian of East Liverpool in their final games to tie Carter.

East Liverpool still leads in defense with 44.4 points a game given up and Wellsville still leads in offense with 67.0 points a game scored. Midland is still second in both categories with 64.0 a game scored and 48.6 a game given up.

Duquesne, Ohio State Make Cage Top Ten

By BEN OLAN

Associated Press Sports Writer

Santa Clara's Broncoes moved into the runner-up position behind UCLA in The Associated Press' major college basketball poll today as part of a wholesale shuffle resulting from the 12-losses suffered by members of the rankings teams last week.

In the latest vote by a national panel of 40 sports writers and broadcasters, UCLA remained a unanimous choice for first place. The Bruins boosted their record to 19-0 in last week's action by trouncing Washington State 83-59 in their only start.

Santa Clara, third a week ago, advanced one place after beating San Francisco 72-47 for its 21st victory without a loss.

North Carolina, beaten by South Carolina, slipped one notch to third. The upset also result in the advancement of South Carolina to the No. 12 spot. The Gamecocks were not ranked last week.

LaSalle, 20-1, climbed one position to fourth while Davidson also moved up one notch to fifth. Kentucky, upset by Florida, fell two positions to sixth.

St. John's of New York, Duquesne, Purdue and Ohio State complete the Top Ten in that order. St. John's climbed two positions while Duquesne rushed up from the 13th spot. Purdue, beaten by Ohio State 88-85, slipped one notch while the Buckeyes soared from 16th to 10th.

Villanova held 11th place. After South Carolina in 12th position came Louisville, Tulsa, New Mexico State, Kansas, Tennessee, Colorado, Illinois and Marquette.

Louisville jumped seven places after defeating Tulsa 83-81 in overtime and Wichita State 65-62. Tulsa tumbled seven places to 14th. New Mexico State held its 15th spot while Kansas, Colorado, Illinois and Marquette all lost ground. The Illini, beaten by both Michigan and Michigan State, slipped from 10th all the way to 19th.

Tennessee, 15-3, is the only newly ranked team besides South Carolina. The Vols climbed to 17th.

Dayton, a 79-71 loser to Florida State, and Baylor, defeated by Rice, dropped out of the ratings. The Flyers were 17th and the Bears 19th last week.

The Top 20, with first place votes, season records through games of Saturday, Feb. 15, and total points for the first 15 picks on a 20-18-16-14-12-10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis:

Stars Edge Buccaneers

Oaks Win Without Barry, Armstrong, Moe Star

By The Associated Press

Warren Armstrong and Doug Moe are the new drum majors in Oakland's point parade as the Oaks march on toward the American Basketball Association's Western Division title.

With Armstrong and Moe taking up the scoring slack for Rick Barry, out for the season with a knee injury, the Oaks pounded the Houston Mavericks 149-122 Monday night for their 2nd victory in 52 games.

Armstrong hit for 34 points—15 of them in the first quarter—and Moe canned 33 as the Oaks stretched their lead over idle Denver to 10 games.

Armstrong's first quarter spree staked Oakland to a 37-29 lead and the Oaks stayed on top the rest of the way. Henry Logan, with 22 points, and Jim Eakins, with 21, also sparked the winners' attack. Stew Johnson was high for the Mavericks with 24 points.

Merv Jackson added 19 points for the Stars while Jim Jones and Ron Franz each put in 21 for New Orleans.

New York Nets Get ABA Rights To Lew Alcindor

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The New York Nets, by a coin flip, won the rights to UCLA All-American giant Lew Alcindor and selected him in a secret American Basketball Association draft, highly informed sources disclosed today.

ABA Commissioner George Mikan was not expected back in Minneapolis until later today and was unavailable for comment.

Alcindor's selection by the cellar team in the ABA's Eastern Division draws the battle lines for an expected dollar war between the two-year-old ABA and the National Basketball Association, which reportedly conducted a secret draft three weeks ago in Chicago, the sources said.

The Nets flipped a coin with Houston, the last-place team in the Western Division, during the ABA's secret draft by conference telephone calls last Saturday, the sources said.

The 11-team ABA, in its second season, conducted the first two rounds of its 1969 draft. Names of otrer players taken were not known.

However, the Oakland Tribune said Monday that Willie Carter of Drake was drafted by Indiana and Herman Gilliam of Purdue was picked by Kentucky.

Phoenix or Milwaukee of the NBA presumably would have the draft rights to the 7-foot-1½ Alcindor, who has led UCLA to two straight NCAA championships and started them to a third.

Alcindor, however, reportedly wants to play in his native New York if he decides to play in either professional league.

Mikan has said ABA owners have agreed to pool money to lure Alcindor into the fledgling league. A specific price has not been set.

"We don't know what he is asking," Mikan said in a recent interview. "We agreed this man is valuable. So, the league will put up a fund to make sure he gets his money . . ."

Mikan, a former NBA great, predicts a no-holds barred war between the leagues for the nation's top college players and says ABA owners are prepared to pay for them.

The commissioner said the ABA has bid a lot of money in the past two drafts but "we were beaten. And I don't choose to be beaten again. Our trustees don't choose to be beaten."

Mikan has said that his league will not begin talking to college players until they have completed their eligibility.

The NCAA finals are scheduled March 20-22 at Louisville, Ky., although many collegians will have completed their careers by then.

Bucks Upset Hawks, Robinson Gets 43

BALTIMORE (AP) — Coach Gene Shue of the Baltimore Bullets made it clear he was not complaining, just observing.

"Flynn Robinson drove to the basket once in the first game and he shot 22 free throws," Shue said. "It's hard to understand how Earl Monroe, who lives in heavy traffic, could only shoot three."

Robinson missed only one of his foul shots and connected on 11 of 20 field goal attempts as he scored 43 points and led Milwaukee, last in the Eastern Division, to a 123-111 victory over Atlanta, the second-place team in the West.

Monroe, who attempts most of his shots after driving in close, scored 30 points as Baltiore's Eastern Division leaders lost 17-112 to the Cincinnati Royals. Monroe sank 14 of 31 field goals tries, and was two-for-three from the foul line.

Shue added:

"But that's not the reason we lost. We just couldn't put the ball into the basket a the end. We had a lot of chances."

Baltimore made just one field goal in the final eight minutes while fittering away at 104-99 lead, and that basket came with 14 seconds to play.

Speculation is running high in Midland as to whom the Leopards will draw for a foe in the WPIAL basketball Tournament.

The drawing will be Saturday night at the Webster Hall Hotel in Pittsburgh. Contrary to the hassles in Ohio, the competing schools have no choice or voice in the pairings. The WPIAL committee makes up the draw and usually does a fine job, giving the best teams the byes and splitting the better teams into different brackets.

Midland could win one or two games in the tourney, but the odds against the Leopards winning the WPIAL crown are high. Not only is Farrell a clear cut choice, but teams like Penn Hills, Highlands, Munhall and Stowe-Rox look to be better than Midland. But the Leopards should handle the entries from Sections 2, 4, 7 and 9, which will include perennially powerful Mt. Lebanon and Uniontown or defending state champ Laurel Highlands. The race in sections 2 and 4 are still wide open, and only Midland, Farrell and Mt. Lebanon have clinched titles or ties so far. Several sections could end in playoffs, complicating the tournament picture.

The young Leopards have been improving as the season has progressed, and have won 12 straight. They may surprise a few people at the Pitt Field House or Civic Arena.

SHEPHERD STATE'S basketball team, coached by Bob Starkey, fell at Towson (Md.) State 108-88 Saturday. Shepherd trailed only 87-84 with five minutes to go, but then got in foul trouble, and ended the game with only three players left on the floor, as six fouled out. "They were calling fouls for heavy breathing," said Starkey, who coached at Oak Glen last year. Shepherd was hit with 38 fouls.

MIDLAND'S Norm Vanlier continued his brilliant play for St. Francis by scoring 39 points as the Frankies routed Geneva 132-98 Saturday night. Coach John Clark reports that six pro teams are interested in Vanlier.

Columbus East Top Team Again

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — East Liverpool remained ninth in the final Associated Press high school basketball poll released today.

The Potters' position was unchanged from last week. Last year East Liverpool ranked eighth in the final poll. Columbus East repeated as the number one team in the poll for the third year in a row.

Coach Bob Hart's magnificent Tigers, unbeaten in 17 games this year, now start the long tournament grind in a bid to prove they belong on top.

The sports writers and sportscasters who vote in the poll gave East 200 points in the final weekly ratings. Canton McKinley, 17-1, which barely edged Lima Bath, 18 - 0, for second place, finished 68 points back of the frontrunners.

East topped the poll in 1967 but lost in the regional finale to Columbus Linden McKinley 44-35, its only blot in the last three seasons. McKinley went on to the Class AA title.

The Tigers stormed back with a perfect 24-0 showing a year ago on their way to a third state crown. Hart's club needs four victories in district play, two in regional and two in the state tournament to seal its second successive championship.

In Class A, Strasburg, which won the small school title in 1967, topped the rankings with 139 points, 20 more than collected by Zane Trace of Ross County. Strasburg finished its regular season 18-0 while Trace was 20-0.

In Double A, McKinley edged Bath by one point for second place while Toledo Libbey, 16-1, and Marlington, 18-0, deadlocked for fourth place.

Zanesville, 16-1, was sixth followed by Sandusky, 16-2; Hamilton Garfield, 15-2; East Liverpool, 16-1 and Columbus South, 14-2.

Canton Lehman, tied for 10th last week, fell to 17th after losing a 68-43 showdown to Canton McKinley.

In small school competition, the only major change saw Granville skid from third to ninth after losing to hot Licking Heights last Monday.

Bloomville, 19 - 1, was third followed by Collins Western Reserve, 18-0; Fort Recovery, 19-1; West Muskingum, 17-1; Bridgeport, 16-1; St. Henry, 19-1; Granville, 4-15 (with 14 of the losses by forfeit) and Garaway, 15-2.

Barely missing the elite circle was unbeaten Mogadore, which garnered 33 points.

Most Ohio Schools are in sectional and district action now to be followed by regionals March 12-15 and the state classic at St. John Arena March 21-22.

Florida Upsets Tennessee

By SHEILA MORAN

Associated Press Sports Writer

Tennessee purposely took two technical fouls in a gamble that backfired and Louisiana State fell after a technical foul shot down Pistol Pete Maravich.

Florida edged Tennessee 65-63 and Vanderbilt nipped LSU 85-83 in the two explosive Southeastern Conference basketball games Monday night.

Meanwhile, sixth-ranked Kentucky widened its SEC lead to two games over 17th-ranked Tennessee, snuffing out Georgia 85-77 in what Adolph Rupp officially claimed as his 800th coaching victory.

In the Pacific —8, top-ranked UCLA's Lew Alcindor scored 22 points to pace the Bruins to a 53-44 victory over upset-minded Washington.

Maravich, the nation's leading scorer, was ejected on a technical foul with about two minutes remaining for squaring off against an official. No blows were struck.

In an effort to get the ball, Tennessee incurred technicals in the closing seconds for calling time out twice in excess of the six allowed. With Florida ahead 62-59 and Tennessee's Bill Justus at the free throw line, Coach Ray Mears called successive times out, the Vols' sixth and seventh.

Justus made his free throw and Andy Owens converted the technical foul shot for Florida, making it 63-60. Florida controlled the jump and Mike Leatherwood dropped in two free throws to give the Gators a 65-60 edge.

Owens then fouled Tennessee's Jim England and Mears called another time out. England made his free throw and Owens missed the technical free throw, leaving the Vols trailing 65-61.

Tennessee took the tap and England's jump shot cut the deficit to two points with 22 seconds left. But time ran out on the Vols.

Mears said he discussed the possibility of trading technicals with assistant coach Stu Aberdeen early in the game. Aberdeen suggested that the Vols try the strategy in the final minute.

Florida Coach Tommy Bartlett indicated he will ask for a rules change.

There was no official explanation available regarding Maravich's ouster. Maravich, who was in possession of the ball, appeared to be hit by a Vanderbilt player and the ball went out of bounds. No foul was called and the official awarded the ball to Vandy.

But the floppy-haired LSU junior, stayed in the game long enough to be top scorer with 35 points, bringing his career total to 2,059 and shattering the SEC career scoring record of 2,030 set by Mississippi State's Bailey Howell in 1957-58.

Kentucky boosted its conference record to 12-1 by snuffing out a Georgia rally. Tennessee, which made the top 20 rankings for the first time this week, dropped to 10-3 in the conference after its loss to Florida.

UCLA, starting slow as they have many times this season, failed to take the lead for more than 30 minutes before the 7-foot-1 Alcindor scored six points to put the Bruins ahead to stay for their 36th straight victory. Washington, playing aggressive defense and deliberate offense, built a 22-21 lead at the half.

In the only other game involving the top 20 teams, 18th-ranked Colorado defeated Oklahoma State 73-66.

Niagara's Calvin Murphy, the nation's number two scorer, was held to 23 points, 10 below his average, by Long Island University, but Niagara went on to win 83-75.

Miss Rubin To Ride At Charles Town

Barbara Jo Rubin, who infuriated Florida jockeys when she tried to ride at Miami's Tropical Park, was scheduled to apply for a license this morning at the Charles Town Race Track.

Rodney Peters, representative of the Jockeys Guild, said the local male riders will not protest the competition from a female. He said Diane Crump's recent entry at Tropical broke the back of opposition.

When Barbara tried Tropical last month the male jockeys refused to ride against her and subsequently were fined $100 each by the Florida Racing Commission.

Carter Has Scoring Title Wrapped Up

There was little change in the statistics among area basketball teams this week.

Rob Carter of Southern virtually clinched the scoring title, though he was idle. His main challengers fell back, and it would take 66 points by Dave Mason of Beaver Local or 70 by Jerry Christian of East Liverpool in their final games to tie Carter.

East Liverpool still leads in defense with 44.4 points a game given up and Wellsville still leads in offense with 67.0 points a game scored. Midland is still second in both categories with 64.0 a game scored and 48.6 a game given up.

Santa Clara's Broncoes moved into the runner-up position behind UCLA in The Associated Press' major college basketball poll today as part of a wholesale shuffle resulting from the 12-losses suffered by members of the rankings teams last week.

In the latest vote by a national panel of 40 sports writers and broadcasters, UCLA remained a unanimous choice for first place. The Bruins boosted their record to 19-0 in last week's action by trouncing Washington State 83-59 in their only start.

Santa Clara, third a week ago, advanced one place after beating San Francisco 72-47 for its 21st victory without a loss.

North Carolina, beaten by South Carolina, slipped one notch to third. The upset also result in the advancement of South Carolina to the No. 12 spot. The Gamecocks were not ranked last week.

LaSalle, 20-1, climbed one position to fourth while Davidson also moved up one notch to fifth. Kentucky, upset by Florida, fell two positions to sixth.

St. John's of New York, Duquesne, Purdue and Ohio State complete the Top Ten in that order. St. John's climbed two positions while Duquesne rushed up from the 13th spot. Purdue, beaten by Ohio State 88-85, slipped one notch while the Buckeyes soared from 16th to 10th.

Villanova held 11th place. After South Carolina in 12th position came Louisville, Tulsa, New Mexico State, Kansas, Tennessee, Colorado, Illinois and Marquette.

Louisville jumped seven places after defeating Tulsa 83-81 in overtime and Wichita State 65-62. Tulsa tumbled seven places to 14th. New Mexico State held its 15th spot while Kansas, Colorado, Illinois and Marquette all lost ground. The Illini, beaten by both Michigan and Michigan State, slipped from 10th all the way to 19th.

Tennessee, 15-3, is the only newly ranked team besides South Carolina. The Vols climbed to 17th.

Dayton, a 79-71 loser to Florida State, and Baylor, defeated by Rice, dropped out of the ratings. The Flyers were 17th and the Bears 19th last week.

Stars Edge Buccaneers

Oaks Win Without Barry, Armstrong, Moe Star

By The Associated Press

Warren Armstrong and Doug Moe are the new drum majors in Oakland's point parade as the Oaks march on toward the American Basketball Association's Western Division title.

With Armstrong and Moe taking up the scoring slack for Rick Barry, out for the season with a knee injury, the Oaks pounded the Houston Mavericks 149-122 Monday night for their 2nd victory in 52 games.

Armstrong hit for 34 points—15 of them in the first quarter—and Moe canned 33 as the Oaks stretched their lead over idle Denver to 10 games.

Bob warren scored a career high of 30 points, leading the Los Angeles Stars past the New Orleans Buccaneers 107-104 in the only other game scheduled.

Armstrong's first quarter spree staked Oakland to a 37-29 lead and the Oaks stayed on top the rest of the way. Henry Logan, with 22 points, and Jim Eakins, with 21, also sparked the winners' attack. Stew Johnson was high for the Mavericks with 24 points.

Merv Jackson added 19 points for the Stars while Jim Jones and Ron Franz each put in 21 for New Orleans.

In Secret Draft

New York Nets Get ABA Rights To Lew Alcindor

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The New York Nets, by a coin flip, won the rights to UCLA All-American giant Lew Alcindor and selected him in a secret American Basketball Association draft, highly informed sources disclosed today.

ABA Commissioner George Mikan was not expected back in Minneapolis until later today and was unavailable for comment.

Alcindor's selection by the cellar team in the ABA's Eastern Division draws the battle lines for an expected dollar war between the two-year-old ABA and the National Basketball Association, which reportedly conducted a secret draft three weeks ago in Chicago, the sources said.

The Nets flipped a coin with Houston, the last-place team in the Western Division, during the ABA's secret draft by conference telephone calls last Saturday, the sources said.

The 11-team ABA, in its second season, conducted the first two rounds of its 1969 draft. Names of otrer players taken were not known.

However, the Oakland Tribune said Monday that Willie Carter of Drake was drafted by Indiana and Herman Gilliam of Purdue was picked by Kentucky.

Phoenix or Milwaukee of the NBA presumably would have the draft rights to the 7-foot-1½ Alcindor, who has led UCLA to two straight NCAA championships and started them to a third.

Alcindor, however, reportedly wants to play in his native New York if he decides to play in either professional league.

Mikan has said ABA owners have agreed to pool money to lure Alcindor into the fledgling league. A specific price has not been set.

"We don't know what he is asking," Mikan said in a recent interview. "We agreed this man is valuable. So, the league will put up a fund to make sure he gets his money . . ."

Mikan, a former NBA great, predicts a no-holds barred war between the leagues for the nation's top college players and says ABA owners are prepared to pay for them.

The commissioner said the ABA has bid a lot of money in the past two drafts but "we were beaten. And I don't choose to be beaten again. Our trustees don't choose to be beaten."

Mikan has said that his league will not begin talking to college players until they have completed their eligibility.

The NCAA finals are scheduled March 20-22 at Louisville, Ky., although many collegians will have completed their careers by then.

Bucks Upset Hawks, Robinson Gets 43

BALTIMORE (AP) — Coach Gene Shue of the Baltimore Bullets made it clear he was not complaining, just observing.

"Flynn Robinson drove to the basket once in the first game and he shot 22 free throws," Shue said. "It's hard to understand how Earl Monroe, who lives in heavy traffic, could only shoot three."

Robinson missed only one of his foul shots and connected on 11 of 20 field goal attempts as he scored 43 points and led Milwaukee, last in the Eastern Division, to a 123-111 victory over Atlanta, the second-place team in the West.

Monroe, who attempts most of his shots after driving in close, scored 30 points as Baltiore's Eastern Division leaders lost 17-112 to the Cincinnati Royals. Monroe sank 14 of 31 field goals tries, and was two-for-three from the foul line.

Shue added:

"But that's not the reason we lost. We just couldn't put the ball into the basket a the end. We had a lot of chances."

Baltimore made just one field goal in the final eight minutes while fittering away at 104-99 lead, and that basket came with 14 seconds to play.

To Honor Contract

Harrelson Will Report To Red Sox Spring Camp

By HAL BOCK

Chalk one up for the owners in the continuing threat of a baseball strike, but don't count the players out yet.

Ken Harrelson, who led the American League in runs batted in last season, became the first name player to announce that he would report to training camp on time this spring.

"I'm going to play," said Harrelson. "I signed a new contract in the middle of last season and I'm going to honor it," the Red Sox' slugger added.

The Players' Association has instructed its members not to sign contracts or report to training camps until the pension dispute is settled and developments Monday indicated that the final settlement could be a long way off.

The club owners rejected a Players' Association request for arbitration, and offered instead to increase their original $1 million boost in pension contributions by $200,000, lifting the total to $5.3 million.

"The offer represents minimal progress," said Marvin Miller, executive director of the Players' Association, who said he would recommend rejection of the offer.

The owners' offer came after the players had recommended turning the dispute over to arbitration by a three-man board. John Gaherin, negotiator for the owners, rejected the suggestion, saying the owners and the players "have all the knowledge required. We don't see any necessity of the intervention of a third party."

Meanwhile, Harrelson found himself right in the middle of the dispute, "I am 100 per cent behind the players, and if I hadn't signed last year, I'd be with them all the way," Harrelson said.

"But I did sign the contract and I'm going to stand by it. I've talked to some of the other players about my situation and they understand why I'm doing what I feel I have to do."

Harrelson's declaration made him the first player of any consequence to split with the others. If more follow him, it could break the back of the strike.

But right now, he's by himself and so are the New Yankees and Chicago White Sox who are trying to carry on training as though everything were normal. But normal was hardly the word for their camps.

The White Sox, training at Sarasota, Fla., have 24 batterymen on hand and announced the signing Monday of Gerry Nyman, a left-handed pitcher who was 2-1 last year. Nyman is the 10th player on the Sox' spring roster to sign.

"I think we will have about 11 man reporting," said Jim Fanning, general manager of the National League expansion Expos.

NHL Seals Will Remain In Oakland

NEW YORK (AP) — The Oakland Seals' application for transfer of their National Hockey League franchise out of the Bay Area was expected to be turned down today by the NHL's Board of Governors.

The Seals, struggling at the gate both last season and this, were hoping for approval to move to Buffalo, N.Y. where a group headed by banker Seymour Knox III has purchased the team conditional upon its transfer.

The issue came up for review at the last Board of Governors meeting in Montreal last month and was tabled but indications at that time were that the move was doomed.

"It is the desire of the league," said President Clarence Campbell, "to remain in the Bay Area."

That could mean a move for the Seals across the bay from Oakland to San Francisco where they would have to play in the Cow Palace, an old arena which lacks the glamour of the team's current home, the newer Oakland Coliseum.

Vancouver also is bidding for the Oakland franchise. It was expected that the Governors would insist on the club remaining in the Bay Area and would assure Buffalo and Vancouver that the next NHL expansion would put teams in their cities.

Glenmoor Bowlers In State Tourney

Williams' Signing Delayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ted Williams says he is excited about his impending signing as manager of the downtrodden Washington Senators. But it appeared today the former star slugger will have to postpone celebration of his million dollar deal with owner Bob Short for at least another 24 hours.

The delay in naming Williams as manager of the last-place American League club was caused by need for additional time to work out details concerning the estimated 10 per cent or $900,000 chunk of Senators stock on which he'll have options to purchase.

The announcement originally had been expected to be made Monday or today. Attorneys indicated they need additional time to complete details on the ownership angles and clear the deal with the government's tax department officials.

Ford Qualifies For Daytona 500

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Ford's Donnie Allison blitzed the 2.5 mile tri-oval Daytona International Speedway Monday in the second fastest qualifying time yet recorded for Sunday's Daytona 500.

Allison, of Hueytown, Ala., was clocked at 189.374 miles per hour in a Ford Torino powered by an engine that wasn't supposed to race.

Lightweight Title Bout Matches Cruz, Ramos

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Carlos "Teo" Cruz of the Dominican Republic puts his world lightweight crown on the linte tonight for the second time, and against the same opponent, youthful Mando Ramos of Long Beach, Calif.

The 15-round rematch goes on about midnight, EST, in the Sports Arena. Promoter Aileen Eaton expects a crowd of 15,000 and gate receipts of $140,000 or more.

The encounter shapes up as one of those classics of the ring—Cruz, 31, who has been fighting 10 years, boasting age and experience, and Mando, a mere 20, a pro for four years, but with youth and enthusiasm in his corner.

In the fight between the two in Los Angeles last Sept. 27, Cruz went out in front in the early rounds and built up a lead that outlasted Ramos' late rally.

The Long Beach Kid, then only 19, won the last three rounds and, while Cruz claimed he was never hurt, he did tire and was in distress at least once.

The stocky Cruz, who swings with both hands from a crouch, said he had been weakened by the flu which upset his training schedule.

It would be a first. Ramos has been hurt and carved up over the eyes but he's a guty young guy and has never been stopped.

Glenmoor Bowlers In State Tourney

Williams' Signing Delayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ted Williams says he is excited about his impending signing as manager of the downtrodden Washington Senators. But it appeared today the former star slugger will have to postpone celebration of his million dollar deal with owner Bob Short for at least another 24 hours.

The delay in naming Williams as manager of the last-place American League club was caused by need for additional time to work out details concerning the estimated 10 per cent or $900,000 chunk of Senators stock on which he'll have options to purchase.

The announcement originally had been expected to be made Monday or today. Attorneys indicated they need additional time to complete details on the ownership angles and clear the deal with the government's tax department officials.

Ford Qualifies For Daytona 500

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Ford's Donnie Allison blitzed the 2.5 mile tri-oval Daytona International Speedway Monday in the second fastest qualifying time yet recorded for Sunday's Daytona 500.

Allison, of Hueytown, Ala., was clocked at 189.374 miles per hour in a Ford Torino powered by an engine that wasn't supposed to race.

Lightweight Title Bout Matches Cruz, Ramos

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Carlos "Teo" Cruz of the Dominican Republic puts his world lightweight crown on the linte tonight for the second time, and against the same opponent, youthful Mando Ramos of Long Beach, Calif.

The 15-round rematch goes on about midnight, EST, in the Sports Arena. Promoter Aileen Eaton expects a crowd of 15,000 and gate receipts of $140,000 or more.

The bout will not be broadcast either via television or radio.

The encounter shapes up as one of those classics of the ring—Cruz, 31, who has been fighting 10 years, boasting age and experience, and Mando, a mere 20, a pro for four years, but with youth and enthusiasm in his corner.

In the fight between the two in Los Angeles last Sept. 27, Cruz went out in front in the early rounds and built up a lead that outlasted Ramos' late rally.

The Long Beach Kid, then only 19, won the last three rounds and, while Cruz claimed he was never hurt, he did tire and was in distress at least once.

The stocky Cruz, who swings with both hands from a crouch, said he had been weakened by the flu which upset his training schedule.

Cruz has spoken confidently of winning, even hinting he might put the long-legged, good-looking Mando away for the court.

It would be a first. Ramos has been hurt and carved up over the eyes but he's a guty young guy and has never been stopped.

Elvin Hayes Closing On Scoring Title

NEW YORK (AP) — Elvin Hayes of the San Diego Rockets is about to relieve Wilt Chamberlain of a treasured spot in the National Basketball Association record book, but he's not the only star performing scoring heroics.

Hayes, the NBA's scoring leader, is on his way to becoming the first rookie to lead the NBA in that category since Wilt Chamberlain did it in 1959.

With the NBA schedule at the three-quarter mark and only 20 games left, Hayes leads runner-up Bob Rule of Seattle by 297 points. Hayes has 1830 points and for a 29.5 average while Rule has 1,533 tallies for a 24.0 average.

Seven of this week's 10 leading scorers, according to NBA statistics released today, weren't listed two years ago and six weren't among the top 10 a year ago.

Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson dipped from third place to fourth with 1,513 and 25.6, followed by Billy Cunningham of Philadelphia with 1,493 and 24.9, and Elgin Baylor of Los Angeles with 1,486 and 25.6.

Elvin Hayes Closing On Scoring Title

NEW YORK (AP) — Elvin Hayes of the San Diego Rockets is about to relieve Wilt Chamberlain of a treasured spot in the National Basketball Association record book, but he's not the only star performing scoring heroics.

Hayes, the NBA's scoring leader, is on his way to becoming the first rookie to lead the NBA in that category since Wilt Chamberlain did it in 1959.

With the NBA schedule at the three-quarter mark and only 20 games left, Hayes leads runner-up Bob Rule of Seattle by 297 points. Hayes has 1830 points and for a 29.5 average while Rule has 1,533 tallies for a 24.0 average.

Seven of this week's 10 leading scorers, according to NBA statistics released today, weren't listed two years ago and six weren't among the top 10 a year ago.

Included in the four repeaters from the same period last year are Earl Monroe of Baltimore, No. 3, last year's rookie of the year, and Detroit's Dave Bing, No. 9, last year's top scorer.

Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson dipped from third place to fourth with 1,513 and 25.6, followed by Billy Cunningham of Philadelphia with 1,493 and 24.9, and Elgin Baylor of Los Angeles with 1,486 and 25.6.

Chamberlain, of Los Angeles, moved from 19th to 18th with 1,295 points for a 20.9 average.

Esposito Suspended For Fight

MONTREAL (AP) — Phil Esposito's assault on the National Hockey League scoring record will have to wait awhile. Boston's slick center won't be doing any scoring for the next two games.

Esposito, who has 92 points—five short of the NHL record shared by Bobby Hull and Stan Mikita, both of Chicago—became incensed when Sloan called a two-minute slashing penalty against him in the Philadelphia game.

According to Campbell, Esposito protested the call and Sloan tagged him with a 10-minute misconduct as well. Then, Campbell said, Esposito shoved the referee twice and threw a punch which landed on Sloan's shoulder.

"Such conduct can not be tolerated," said Campbell, explaining his ruling, which followed a hearing at which both Sloan and Esposito testified.

Esposito also drew $75 in automatic fines for the incident.

Esposito Suspended For Fight

MONTREAL (AP) — Phil Esposito's assault on the National Hockey League scoring record will have to wait awhile. Boston's slick center won't be doing any scoring for the next two games.

Esposito, who has 92 points—five short of the NHL record shared by Bobby Hull and Stan Mikita, both of Chicago—became incensed when Sloan called a two-minute slashing penalty against him in the Philadelphia game.

According to Campbell, Esposito protested the call and Sloan tagged him with a 10-minute misconduct as well. Then, Campbell said, Esposito shoved the referee twice and threw a punch which landed on Sloan's shoulder.

"Such conduct can not be tolerated," said Campbell, explaining his ruling, which followed a hearing at which both Sloan and Esposito testified.

Esposito also drew $75 in automatic fines for the incident.

Junior Editors Quiz on ROYALTY

QUESTION: How did kings and royal families begin?

* * * *

ANSWER: The idea of a sovereign — of one person who rules a nation — appeared very early in human history. The ancient kings probably developed from tribal chieftains, who were able to direct the efforts of people so they worked together, building towns and cities and making civilization possible. Gradually the chieftain obtained more power. He became a king and people began to believe he was the representative of God on earth. The ambition of these early kings, such as ruled Egypt from 3100 B.C. on, made such nations as Egypt and Persia possible. The kings built huge temples, which encouraged engineering and art. But to get labor, they raided neighboring kingdoms to obtain slaves, so their contribution to progress was marred by savage cruelty. Christianity introduced a different idea — that all men should live as brothers — and this encouraged the growth of freedom and democracy. As a result, the powers of kings became limited by parliaments representing the people. Today, there are few monarchies left — even at that, kings are occasionally crowned, as our pictures show.

Junior Editors Quiz on ROYALTY

QUESTION: How did kings and royal families begin?

* * * *

ANSWER: The idea of a sovereign — of one person who rules a nation — appeared very early in human history. The ancient kings probably developed from tribal chieftains, who were able to direct the efforts of people so they worked together, building towns and cities and making civilization possible. Gradually the chieftain obtained more power. He became a king and people began to believe he was the representative of God on earth. The ambition of these early kings, such as ruled Egypt from 3100 B.C. on, made such nations as Egypt and Persia possible. The kings built huge temples, which encouraged engineering and art. But to get labor, they raided neighboring kingdoms to obtain slaves, so their contribution to progress was marred by savage cruelty. Christianity introduced a different idea — that all men should live as brothers — and this encouraged the growth of freedom and democracy. As a result, the powers of kings became limited by parliaments representing the people. Today, there are few monarchies left — even at that, kings are occasionally crowned, as our pictures show.
